Between Social Skills and Marketable Skills Roman Loimeier, 2009-06-15 The present volume is a pioneering study of the development of Islamic traditions of learning in 20th century Zanzibar and the role of Muslim scholars in society and politics based on extensive fieldwork and archival research in Zanzibar 2001-2007. The volume highlights the dynamics of Muslim traditions of reform in pre-colonial colonial and post-colonial Zanzibar focussing on the contribution of Sufi scholars Qadiriyya Alawiyya as well as Muslim reformers modernists activists and a return to Islamic education. It examines several types of Islamic schools Qur'anic schools madaris and Islamic institutes as well as the emergence of the discipline of Islamic Religious Instruction in colonial government schools. The volume argues that dynamics of cooperation between religious scholars and the British administration defined both form and content of Islamic education in the colonial period 1890-1963. The revolution of 1964 led to the marginalization of established traditions of Islamic education and encouraged the development of Muslim activist movements which have started to challenge state-informed institutions of learning.
