Embracing Protestantism John W. Catron,2016-03-09 In Embracing Protestantism John Catron argues that people of African descent in America who adopted Protestant Christianity during the eighteenth century did not become African Americans but instead assumed more fluid Atlantic African identities America was then the land of slavery and white supremacy where citizenship and economic mobility were off limits to most people of color In contrast the Atlantic World offered access to the growing abolitionist movement in Europe Catron examines how the wider Atlantic World allowed membership in transatlantic evangelical churches that gave people of color unprecedented power in their local congregations and contact with black Christians in West and Central Africa It also channeled inspiration from the large black churches then developing in the Caribbean and from black missionaries Unlike deracinated creoles who attempted to merge with white culture people of color who became Protestants were Atlantic Africans who used multiple religious traditions to restore cultural and ethnic connections And this religious heterogeneity was a critically important way black Anglophone Christians resisted slavery

The Aesthetic Life of Infrastructure Kelly M. Rich, Nicole M. Rizzuto, Susan Zieger, 2022-12-15 A critical reading of the unstable structures that organize biological and social life This timely and radically interdisciplinary volume uncovers the aesthetics and politics of infrastructure From roads and bridges to harbors and canals infrastructure is conventionally understood as the public works that allow for the circulation of capital Yet this naturalized concept of infrastructure driven by capital's restless expansion is haunted by imperial tendencies to occupy territory extract resources and organize life Infrastructure thus undergirds the living nexus of modernity in an ongoing project of racialization affective embodiment and environmental praxis Rather than merely making visible infrastructure's modes of power however The Aesthetic Life of Infrastructure brings literary methods to bear on the interpretive terrain reading infrastructural space and temporalities to show that their aesthetic and sensorial experience cannot be understood apart from histories of production and political economies Building on critical infrastructure studies in anthropology geography and media studies this collection demonstrates the field s vitality to scholars working across the humanities including in literary visual and cultural studies By querying the presumed invisibility of infrastructure s hidden life the volume s contributors revitalize ongoing literary debates about reading surface and depth How they ask might infrastructure and aesthetics then function as epistemic tools for rethinking each other And what urgency do they acquire in light of current crises that bear on death whether biological social or planetary

Created in Their Image Winelle J.

Kirton-Roberts, 2015-03-30 Every denomination entered the Caribbean with a mission While the general motivation was to convert the population to Christianity the accompanying practices were undoubtedly intended to civilise and westernise The Moravians and Methodists were the first two evangelical Protestant missions that brought the gospel to the enslaved Africans in the Caribbean When emancipation was granted to the enslaved Africans by the British government in 1834 the newly freed Africans had their own ideas as to how they would live work and worship They were in a struggle for freedom self affirmation self expression and personal development But the Moravians and Methodists had independently framed their thoughts on what the formerly enslaved Africans needed to survive and succeed What the evangelical Protestants created for themselves was an image of the formerly enslaved African They had drawn a mental picture of a European Christian of African descent who was residing in the Caribbean and practicing the Christianity of the West The Caribbean evangelical black was a reflection of the Europeans but never managed to fit into the submissive Christian image This book traces the eighty years during which formerly enslaved Africans adapted to their state of freedom in Antigua and Barbados and how the Moravians and Methodists sought to shape their way of life The book examines the theological dispositions on slavery gender education religion sexuality and race

Tracking the Literature of Tropical Weather Anne Collett, Russell McDougall, Sue

Thomas,2017-01-09 This book tracks across history and cultures the ways in which writers have imagined cyclones hurricanes and typhoons collectively understood as tropical weather Historically literature has drawn upon the natural world for its store of symbolic language and technical device making use of violent storms in the form of plot drama trope and image in order to highlight their relationship to the political social and psychological realms of human affairs Charting this relationship through writers such as Joseph Conrad Herman Melville Gis le Pineau and other writers from places like Australia Japan Mauritius the Caribbean and the Philippines this ground breaking collection of essays illuminates the specificities of the ways local national and regional communities have made sense and even relied upon the literary to endure the devastation caused by deadly tropical weather Activism in the Name of God Jami L.
