South For New Southerners:

The South for New Southerners Paul D. Escott, David R. Goldfield, 2016-08-01 The South often seems like a foreign country to newcomers from other parts of the United States And for people from other countries Southern customs and lifestyle can be even more bewildering For anyone who has ever wondered why the style of conducting business in the South is different or why some Southerners are still fighting the Civil War this book will be a valuable guide The informative and entertaining essays will help new Southerners understand and appreciate the region and its people and they will also serve as a refresher course on the South for those who are comfortably settled in Each of the essays adopts a different perspective to suggest just how the South is different from other American regions In turn they examine the special meaning of history for Southerners the boundaries of the South as a geographical and as an imaginary region the rhetoric and the reality of Southern race relations the South's change from a rural to a metropolitan culture the myth of the Southern belle and the reality of Southern women's lives the political metamorphosis that turned the Solid South into the Solid Republican South and the recent transformation of the poorest region in the country into an economic wonder called the Sunbelt Readers will learn that when Southerners ask strangers what church they attend the intent is not to pry but to be friendly They will also discover that where the kudzu grows is one of the best ways to define where the South is located The essays offer the insights of both scholarship and experience for the contributors most of them originally non Southerners learned about this region by living in it as well as studying it The contributors are Julia Kirk Blackwelder Paul D Escott David R Goldfield Nell Irvin Painter John Shelton Reed and Thomas E Terrill Year Book of the New York Southern Society New York Southern Society, 1919 Catalogue of the New York Southern Society New York Southern Society. Library, 1891

Southern Historical Society Papers Southern Historical Society, 1915 South to A New Place Suzanne W. Jones, Sharon Monteith, 2002-11-01 Taking Albert Murray's South to a Very Old Place as a starting point contributors to this exciting collection continue the work of critically and creatively remapping the South through their freewheeling studies of southern literature and culture Appraising representations of the South within a context that is postmodern diverse widely inclusive and international the essays present multiple ways of imagining the South and examine both new places and old landscapes in an attempt to tie the mythic southern balloon down to earth In his foreword an insightful discussion of numerous Souths and the ways they are perceived Richard Gray explains one of the key goals of the book to open up to scrutiny the literary and cultural practice that has come to be known as regionalism Part I Surveying the Territory theorizes definitions of place and region and includes an analysis of southern literary regionalism from the 1930s to the present and an exploration of southern popular culture In Mapping the Region essayists examine different representations of rural landscapes and small towns cities and suburbs as well as liminal zones in which new immigrants make their homes Reflecting the contributors transatlantic perspective Making Global Connections challenges notions of southern distinctiveness by reading the region through the comparative frameworks of Southern Italy East Germany Latin America and the United Kingdom and via a range of texts and contexts from early reconciliation romances to Faulkner s fictions about race to the more recent parody of southern mythmaking Alice Randall s The Wind Done Gone Together these essays explore the roles that economic racial and ideological tensions have played in the formation of southern identity through varying representations of locality moving regionalism toward a new place in southern studies The Southern Workman ,1924
