Soviet Nuclear Policy Under Gorbachev Daniel Calingaert, 1991-05-30 This work offers a broad interpretation of the extraordinary changes that have taken place in Soviet arms control policy since Mikhail Gorbachev became Soviet head of state in March of 1985 Gorbachev's policy is usually portrayed as an effort to ease the Soviet defense burden and to improve relations with the West but Daniel Calingaert goes further arguing that the Gorbachev leadership has embarked on a basically new policy of nuclear disarmament Calingaert outlines how this policy allows the Soviets to divert resources to industrial modernization restructure the armed forces and join the global economy thereby revitalizing their economic strength and exerting a renewed influence on international affairs Organized thematically rather than chronologically the book concentrates on interpreting the major decisions affecting nuclear weapons in Europe strategic arms and ballistic missile defenses The first five chapters explore the various components of Soviet arms control policy the personnel and institutional changes that gave impetus to revisions in Soviet security policy the strong economic inducements to pursue disarmament changes in national security aims that provide the rationale for undertaking nuclear disarmament the impact of revisions in nuclear strategy on force requirements and on Soviet disarmament initiatives and the pursuit of foreign policy objectives through arms control A final chapter interprets Soviet conduct of nuclear arms talks in light of this analysis of the nation's security nuclear strategy and foreign policy With its broad overview of Gorbachev's arms control policy as well as its original analyses this study will be a useful resource for both students and experts of Soviet policy and security studies

The Russian Nuclear Shield from Stalin to Yeltsin J. Mathers, 2000-08-09 This book makes extensive use of Soviet sources to provide the first full analysis of Moscow's ballistic missile defence policy from its origins to the most recent post Soviet developments It considers the Soviets motivations for pursuing an anti ballistic missile capability and the extent of their success and reveals that ballistic missile defence policy was used by every political leadership from Krushchev to Yeltsin as a means of sending signals about Moscow's intentions to the West The Collapse of the Soviet Union, 1985-1991 David R. Marples, 2016-09-17 Why did the Soviet Union collapse in 1991 The collapse of the Soviet Union has widely been seen as the result of the arms race and Cold War and the failure of the Soviet side to keep pace with new technology This book argues that the disintegration was mainly a result of two interrelated factors the rise of the Soviet national republics and the manipulation of the new Russian presidency by Boris Yeltsin in what became a direct power struggle between Yeltsin and the Soviet leader Gorbachev Written in a clear and accessible manner the book provides an explanation of how the national question came to dominate Soviet politics by 1990 1 analysis of the economic crisis that occurred in the late 1980s a chapter devoted to the year 1991 from the referendum to reform the Soviet Union to the unforeseen dissolution of the country by December a discussion of the personalities of and political confrontation between the two key statesmen Gorbachev and Yeltsin Also containing a Chronology Glossary and Who's Who of key figures The Collapse of the Soviet Union is essential
