Professional Knowledge in Music Teacher Education Pamela Burnard, 2016-03-23 The complexity of the various forms of knowledge and practices that are encountered by teachers university lecturers teacher trainers student teachers policy makers and researchers demands careful thought and reflection Professional Knowledge in Music Teacher Education focuses on how knowledge is understood what theories are held and the related assumptions that are made about teachers and learners as well as how theory and practice can be understood with useful and imaginative connections made between the two in music teacher education Internationally renowned contributors address a number of fundamental questions designed to take the reader to the heart of current debates around knowledge practice professionalism and learning and teaching in music as well as considering how all these elements are influenced by economic cultural and social forces The book demonstrates how research can inform pedagogical approaches in music teacher education methods courses and field experiences and prepare teachers for diverse learners from a range of educational settings The book will appeal to those interested in the development of appropriate professional knowledge and pedagogic practices in music teacher education

Researching Creative Learning Pat Thomson, Julian Sefton-Green, 2010-11-05 It is a common ambition in society and government to make young people more creative These aspirations are motivated by two key concerns to make experience at school more exciting relevant challenging and dynamic and to ensure that young people are able and fit to leave education and contribute to the creative economy that will underpin growth in the twenty first century Transforming these common aspirations into informed practice is not easy It can mean making many changes turning classrooms into more exciting experiences introducing more thoughtful challenges into the curriculum making teachers into different kinds of instructors finding more authentic assessment processes putting young people's voices at the heart of learning There are programmes projects and initiatives that have consistently attempted to offer such change and transformation The UK programme Creative Partnerships is the largest of these but there are significant initiatives in many other parts of the world today including France Norway Canada and the United States This book not only draws on this body of expertise but also consolidates it making it the first methodological text exploring creativity Creative teaching and learning is often used as a site for research and action research and this volume is intended to act as a textbook for this range of courses and initiatives The book will be a key text for research in creative teaching and learning and is specifically directed at ITE CPD Masters and doctoral students

Developing Creativities in Higher Music Education Pamela Burnard, 2013-10-08 This is the first book to critically address the issue of how we can enhance and develop creativities in higher music education It features new international richly diverse perspectives on the nature and practice of creativities in different cultural and institutional contexts in varying roles and in response to diverse professional pressures and expectations of artistic and educational achievement This compelling and provocative book combines powerful social and educational commentaries and examples drawn from international sources based on original practices and experience of a diversity of creativities The authors provide an important contribution by drawing attention to what is at the heart of all music and how we can understand and foster these multiple creativities at an individual and institutional level It features new analyses of the question of creativities in higher music education and offers illustrative and innovative examples of adaptive learning environments for teaching and learning creatively considering the broader issue of the role of creativities in relation to educational policy in the context of increasingly interventionist governments and rapidly paced educational change Topics covered include the conceptual tools for people to think about and debate multiple creativities the role of creativities in higher music education how musicians can develop multiple creativities in new ways new approaches to teaching and learning for multiple creativities what constitute leadership creativities in conservatoires and music departments creativities at the interface of institutional learning cultures assessing the multiple creativities of music Developing Creativities in Higher Music Education offers a multi disciplinary research and practice focus which will be essential reading for anyone involved in higher education and industry sectors The book will appeal to academics and practitioners in music researchers instrumental and vocal teachers curriculum and policy developers and institutional managers who want to enrich the higher education experiences of their students and enable them to develop more of their creative potential It is also ideal reading for undergraduate and postgraduate students of music education who are looking for an authoritative selection of writings that define the fields of musical creativities in one comprehensive volume

Multimodality in Higher Education Esther Breuer, Arlene Archer, 2016-05-30 Multimodality in Higher Education theorizes writing practices and pedagogy from a multimodal perspective It looks at the theoretical and methodological uptake of multimodal approaches in a range of domains in Higher Education including art and design architecture composition studies science management accounting and engineering Changes in the communication landscape have engendered an increasing recognition of the different semiotic dimensions of representation Student assignments require increasingly complex multimodal competencies and Higher Education needs to be equipped to students with these texts Multimodality in Higher Education explores the changing communication landscapes in Higher Education in terms of spaces and texts as well as new processes of production and creativity in the new media Understanding Art Education Nicholas Addison, Lesley Burgess, John Steers, Jane Trowell, 2010-01-04 What is distinctive about art and design as a subject in secondary schools What contribution does it make to the wider curriculum How can art and design develop the agency of young people Understanding Art Education examines the theory and practice of helping young people learn in and beyond the secondary classroom It provides guidance and stimulation for ways of thinking about art and design when preparing to teach and provides a framework within which teachers can locate their own experiences and beliefs Designed to complement the core textbook Learning to Teach Art and Design in the Secondary School which offers pragmatic approaches for trainee and newly qualified teachers this book suggests ways in which art and design teachers can engage reflexively with their continuing practice Experts in the field explore The histories of art and design education and their relationship to wider social and cultural developments Creativity as a foundation for learning Engaging with contemporary practice in partnership with external agencies The role of assessment in evaluating creative and collaborative practices Interdisciplinary approaches to art and design Developing dialogue as a means to address citizenship and global issues in art and design education Understanding Art Education will be of interest to all students and practising teachers particularly those studying at M Level as well as teacher educators and researchers who wish to reflect on their identity as an artist and teacher and the ways in which the subject can inform and contribute to education and society more widely

Social and Critical Practice in Art Education Dennis Atkinson, Paul Dash, 2005 This book takes a new exciting and important approach to art It shows how children and older students can use art to explore personal social and cultural issues that touch their lives The book covers new ground responding as it does to the increasingly diverse nature of cities and to recent government initiatives worldwide to foster social inclusion and equality of opportunity and support active citizenship The contributors are art educators They write about their ways of engaging with contemporary art practice in their particular fields so as to encourage young people to acquire critical understanding They also challenge the pedagogies that perpetuate long established forms of art practice Tim Rollins writes about his work with disaffected youths in the Bronx and John Johnston describes work in art to bring communities together in Northern Ireland Other contributors include Toby Jackson head of interpretation at Tate Modern Diedre Prinz curator of the Robben Island museum in South Africa the 198 Gallery in south London and Viv Golding who works in museums and gallery education Sinath Bannerjee explores socio cultural issues in comic novels in India and Sue Lok explores identities through art practices Educators at each level also contribute to this groundbreaking book Andy Gower describes his innovative art practice in a secondary school and children of Room 13 in a Scottish primary school report on their organization of their own focus for art Lesley Burgess and Nick Addison give an account of their development of critical and social practices in art education at London s Institute of Education The book is for all those working in art education in museums and galleries schools and communities Contributor information Tim Rollins work in New York with Kids of Survival KOS has achieved world wide acclaim Beginning in the 1980s Rollins taught a highly disaffected group of teenagers in the Bronx and together they established an art workshop where members of the group produced challenging conceptual art work Subsequently work was sold and is now held in major galleries around the world Through their visual practices many members of the group overcame feelings of rejection and alienation and developed self assurance and confidence John Johnston works with the Protestant communities in Belfast and through the use of visual practices he has been working with young people in a variety of community sites to explore issues of identity This is a difficult educational challenge given the history of Northern Ireland Recently he has been invited to work in Lebanon at a human rights summer school He has been working with young people there to explore themes of home and belonging through visual practices Room 13 consists of a highly creative group of children at Caol Primary School near Fort William in Scotland The children are producing contemporary art which has received much interest and acclaim nationally and internationally The children run Room 13 as an entirely self funding business independent from the school Rob Fairley and Claire Gibb are the only adults involved they offer advice but they are not the children s teachers An elected committee of children makes all decisions about the work and the business Viv Golding is a lecturer in museum studies at Leicester University She uses the concept of museum clearing to counter the discourses of lack often a self fulfilling prophecy that frequently permeates much discussion of Black children and their under achievement in UK schools today The practical value of her critique is illustrated through a fieldwork project involving imaginative art and literacy school and museum work in south London with early years children Deidre Prins and her team work as education officers at Robben Island Museum in South Africa They provide some background to the work of the museum and introduce readers briefly to the legacy of creative forms used in the maximum security prison between 1960s and 1991 and the role it played in creating a process of normalization under conditions that were repressive and alienating A large part of the audiences of Robben Island Museum are children and youth All of them have no memory or experience of the colonial period in RSA history and very few of them have a memory or experience of apartheid These are two defining periods in the lives of all South Africans with the scars benefits and joys of a new democracy To create a dynamic learning environment in which children and youth can engage with a legacy which is at once painful and liberatory requires a process of making memory speaking about the past doing the past and understanding the past Their engagement with this past in turn creates their own memories and leaves its mark on Robben Island which is a living museum The theme of memory making will be described through the production of a photographic collage which is part of the annual Spring School activities 198 Gallery The team at the 198 Gallery write about their work on the Urban Visions scheme which is an outreach programme that deals with disaffected youth in south London Lucy Davies the chief administrator and other gallery staff will write about how their program has impacted on the learning experience of children from this diverse urban environment Many are excluded from schools or have learning difficulties which schools find difficult to address The gallery in its work across a range of media but more especially electronic media has earned the respect of many in educational and fine art circles both in this country and in mainland Europe Sue Lok is an artist and lecturer at Middlesex University She has a particular interest in the experience of Chinese British artists and young people Her work will explore themes central to their experience alongside issues emanating from her own experience as an artist and researcher Lesley Burgess and Nick Addison are art educators at the Institute of Education in London They have a nation wide reputation for their seminal publication Learning to Teach Art and Design in the Secondary School They have carried out further research in the arena of teacher education for this book Andy Gower is head of art at a north London comprehensive school He and his team have devised a way of teaching which is unique but very successful within the state system Their issues based approach extends across the year groups and encourages responses which address issues of personal social cultural and political concern The idea is not to focus greatly on the development of traditional skills in making art but in fostering a creative thinking environment in which children respond imaginatively and personally to issues which impact on their lives Sarnath is a comic artist he address issues through the graphic medium of comic imagery His work explores relationships and issues of exclusion both physical and psychological The ways in which his pieces unfurl encourage different interpretations and readings of what is being said It is an extraordinarily intense and challenging comic style which demands constant revisiting and re reading His chapter invites us to enter the world of a south Asian man whose thoughts drift in and out of different points of experience It takes us on a physical and psychological journey and depositis us in a space that begs more questions about identity and belonging Sarnath Banerjee has initiated a scheme in the south Asian community of Tower Hamlets in east London which will see Bengali women make comics about their lives and thoughts He is developing a similar scheme among a number of minority ethnic communities in the Brixton area of south London He is shortl
