Teaching Technology in Libraries Carol Smallwood, Lura Sanborn, 2017-02-06 Libraries are charged with fostering new skills and capabilities a challenging task in an era of rapid technological change Developing new ways of teaching and learning within budget and time constraints is the key to keeping up to date Written by librarians this collection of new essays describes an array of technology outreach and instruction programs from the theoretical to the practical for public academic and school libraries based on case studies and discussions of methodology Content includes out of the box lessons outreach successes and technology instruction programs applicable to patrons and staff at public academic and school libraries

New Methods of Teaching and Learning in Libraries Ann Whitney Gleason, 2016-10-20 New Methods of Teaching and Learning in Libraries is a one stop introduction to the role of technology in teaching and learning in libraries

Emerging models of library instruction and library support of instruction will be presented. Increasingly librarians are called upon to partner with educational faculty and community members to deliver content and support innovative educational initiatives. Since libraries reach across academic disciplines and provide resources for the greater community they are uniquely positioned to provide services and technologies that are available to many, bringing innovation out of silos and facilitating innovation in the community. Chapters covered include Active Learning in Collaborative Spaces, Creating Library Spaces that Foster Creation, Teaching Beyond the Library Walls, Teaching Skills for Career Success, Multimedia in Library Education, The Future of Mobile Libraries, Teaching and Learning in the Library of the Future. Innovative programs will be highlighted and practical examples will be provided.

Planning for Library Services Charles R. McClure, 1982. Planning for Library Services assists library and information service managers in initiating, improving, and sustaining good planning practices in their organizations. It provides practicing librarians with a guide to assist in their planning methods for increased library effectiveness and promotes a better understanding of the concepts, benefits, potential problems, and processes related to planning.

Integrating Library Use Skills Into the General Education Curriculum Linda S. Katz, 2021-04-14. This provocative new book will help you design and implement the most effective library user education possible, one that builds on basic library use skills through a progressively sophisticated program that is fully integrated into course curriculum at all levels from the freshman year to graduation and beyond. By exploring major issues underlying the integration of library use skills and research methodologies into the general education curriculum, contributors raise important questions, offer creative ideas, and provide insight into the many improvements made in library instruction in the past few years. Following an introduction by Patricia Breivik, a recognized national authority on libraries and general education, contributors representing two and four year institutions and research universities discuss such issues as the relationship between high school and college programs, research skills instruction in a remote access environment, the use of microcomputers and end user searching programs to promote critical thinking, and the improved relationship between librarians and faculty. In addition to articles on library instruction geared towards question analysis, information generation by field structure, of published knowledge, and dissemination of a discipline's literature, chapters identify cooperative efforts needed among school, public, special, academic libraries, and other information agencies, computer center personnel, and online database vendors. Bibliographic instruction librarians who are active participants in planning and administering library user education programs will find this volume to be essential for building and developing stronger, more integrated programs.
