Noguera,2021 At a time of bitter national polarization there is a critical need for leaders who can help us better communicate with one another In A Search for Common Ground Rick Hess and Pedro Noguera who have often fallen on opposing sides of the ideological aisle over the past couple of decades candidly talk through their differences on some of the toughest issues in K 12 education today from school choice to testing to diversity to privatization They offer a sharp honest debate that digs deep into their disagreements enabling them to find a surprising amount of common ground along the way Written as a series of back and forth exchanges this engaging book illustrates a model of responsible civil debate between those with substantial principled differences It is also a powerful meditation on where 21st century school improvement can and should go next Book Features Modeling dialogue Rick and Pedro provide a model for how to sort through complicated issues and find common ground in today s atmosphere of distrust Deliberate sustained exchange Rick and Pedro demonstrate how deliberate sustained reflection allows them to respectfully flesh out differences and sharpen their own thoughts Left and Right Politics Rick generally Right and Pedro generally Left offer a window into where they do and don t agree on education and point the way to principled cooperation Readable and conversational Rather than pushing a partisan agenda Rick and Pedro have crafted a stimulating read for education newcomers and experts alike Unique approach While other books about the different sides of the education debates simply present paired essays Rick and Pedro actually engage with each other to strive for a deeper understanding of their differences      Teaching in America Yale-New Haven Teachers Institute,James R. Learned,William Chandler Bagley,Charles Alexander McMurry,George Drayton Strayer,Walter Fenno Dearborn,Isaac Leon Kandel,Homer Walter Josselyn,1920      Color in the Classroom Zoe Burkholder,2011-10-05 Between the turn of the twentieth century and the Brown v Board of Education decision in 1954 the way that American schools taught about race changed dramatically This transformation was engineered by the nation s most prominent anthropologists including Franz Boas Ruth Benedict and Margaret Mead during World War II Inspired by scientific racism in Nazi Germany these activist scholars decided that the best way to fight racial prejudice was to teach what they saw as the truth about race in the institution that had the power to do the most good American schools Anthropologists created lesson plans lectures courses and pamphlets designed to revise what they called the race concept in American education They believed that if teachers presented race in scientific and egalitarian terms conveying human diversity as learned habits of culture rather than innate characteristics American citizens would become less racist Although nearly forgotten today this educational reform movement represents an important component of early civil rights activism that emerged alongside the domestic and global tensions of wartime Drawing on hundreds of first hand accounts written by teachers nationwide Zo Burkholder traces the influence of this anthropological activism on the way that teachers understood spoke and taught about race She explains how and why teachers readily understood certain theoretical concepts such as the division of race into three main categories while they struggled to make sense of more complex models of cultural diversity and structural inequality As they translated theories into practice teachers crafted an educational discourse on race that differed significantly from the definition of race produced by scientists at mid century Schoolteachers and their approach to race were put into the spotlight with the Brown v Board of Education case but the belief that racially integrated schools would eradicate racism in the next generation and eliminate the need for discussion of racial inequality long predated this Discussions of race in the classroom were silenced during the early Cold War until a new generation of antiracist multicultural educators emerged in the 1970s American Journal of Education ,1916 The American Idea, Resilience, and Thrivancy Education Dexter Chapin,2024-10-08 This book is about a path forward creating cultural resilience so rising generations of Americans can thrive In 1995 William Strauss and Neil Howe predicted that by 2025 America would be in crisis It has arrived on schedule Do we have or can we develop the cultural resilience to navigate the crisis protect and maintain the American Idea and come out the other side in a better place than we are now Our resilience depends on the number of alternative paradigms we have available to us fewer paradigms less resilience For fifty years there has been a dominant white male cultural paradigm driving others to the margins and slowly devolving into an ideology Ideologies truncate resilience and preclude Thrivancy How did we get here and how do we get out Handbook of Moral and Character Education Larry Nucci,Tobias Krettenauer,2014-04-24 There is widespread agreement that schools should contribute to the moral development and character formation of their students In fact 80% of US states currently have mandates regarding character education However the pervasiveness of the support for moral and character education masks a high degree of controversy surrounding its meaning and methods The purpose of this handbook is to supplant the prevalent ideological rhetoric of the field with a comprehensive research oriented volume that both describes the extensive changes that have occurred over the last fifteen years and points forward to the future Now in its second edition this book includes the latest applications of developmental and cognitive psychology to moral and character education from preschool to college settings and much more Community Education Journal ,1986
