

An abstract painting of a human face in profile, facing right. The face is rendered with thick, expressive brushstrokes in shades of red, brown, and grey. The interior of the face is filled with a vibrant, colorful cityscape. The city features a prominent red and orange building in the center, a blue bridge or structure, and various other buildings in yellow, green, and blue. The background of the face is a mix of light and dark tones, suggesting a sky or water. The overall style is expressive and modern.

Fixico, 2024-09-27 Now in its second edition The American Indian Mind in a Linear World examines the persistence of Native peoples in retaining their own worldviews from the pre Columbian era into the twenty first century The book explores the ways in which Indian people who are close to their cultural traditions think in a circular fashion understand by relying on visual analysis and make decisions from an Indigenous logic Yet Comanches have a different reality from Mohawks Apache ethos is not like that of the Lakotas and Indian men and women see things differently How and why is the Native mind different from the western world Why have white teachers and missionaries tried to change the minds of Native students The Indian perspective is not wrong it is simply different and inclusive another way of looking at the world and universe This edition updates the discussion with a new chapter on contemporary American Indian intellectualism and further analysis of the preservation of Indigenous traditional knowledge Approachable and engaging this volume is a key resource for students and scholars of Native American and Indigenous studies and Indigenous history

Coming of Age in Chicago Ira Jacknis, Donald McVicker, James Snead, 2016-02 Coming of Age in Chicago explores a watershed moment in American anthropology when an unprecedented number of historians and anthropologists of all subfields gathered on the 1893 Chicago Columbian Exposition fairgrounds drawn together by the fair's focus on indigenous peoples Participants included people making a living with their research sporadic backyard diggers religiously motivated researchers and a small group who sought a scientific understanding of the lifeways of indigenous peoples At the fair they set the foundation for anthropological inquiry and redefined the field At the same time the American public became aware through their own experiences at the fair of a global humanity with reactions that ranged from revulsion to curiosity tolerance and kindness Curtis M Hinsley and David R Wilcox combine primary historical texts modern essays and rarely seen images from the period to create a volume essential for understanding the significance of this event These texts explore the networking of thinkers planners dreamers schemers and scholars who interacted in a variety of venues to lay the groundwork for museums academic departments and expeditions These new relationships helped shape the profession and the trajectory of the discipline and they still resonate more than a century later

First Peoples, First Contacts Jonathan C. H. King, 1999 From the Big Game Hunters who appeared on the continent as far back as 12 000 years ago to the Inuits plying the Alaskan waters today the Native peoples of North America produced a culture remarkable for its vibrancy breadth and diversity and for its survival in the face of almost inconceivable trials This book is at once a history of that culture and a celebration of its splendid variety Rich in historical testimony and anecdotes and lavishly illustrated it weaves a magnificent tapestry of Native American life reaching back to the earliest human records A recognized expert in North American studies Jonathan King interweaves his account with Native histories from the arrival of the first Native Americans by way of what is now Alaska to their later encounters with Europeans on the continent s opposite coast from their exchanges with fur traders to their confrontations with settlers and an ever more voracious American government To illustrate this history King draws on the extensive collections of the British Museum artwork clothing tools and artifacts that demonstrate the wealth of ancient traditions as well as the vitality of contemporary Native culture These illustrations all described in detail form a pictorial document of relations between Europeans and Native American peoples peoples as profoundly different and as deeply related as the Algonquians and the Iroquois the Chumash of California and the Inuipat of Alaska the Cree and the Cherokee from their first contact to their complicated coexistence today
