Slavery And The Numbers Game A Critique Of Time On The Cross:

Slavery and the Numbers Game Herbert George Gutman, 2003 This detailed analysis of slavery in the antebellum South was written in 1975 in response to the prior year's publication of Robert Fogel and Stanley Engerman's controversial Time on the Cross which argued that slavery was an efficient and dynamic engine for the southern economy and that its success was due largely to the willing cooperation of the slaves themselves. Noted labor historian Herbert G. Gutman was unconvinced even outraged by Fogel and Engerman's arguments. In this book he offers a systematic dissection of Time on the Cross drawing on a wealth of data to contest that book's most fundamental assertions. A benchmark work of historical inquiry, Gutman's critique sheds light on a range of crucial aspects of slavery and its economic effectiveness. Gutman emphasizes the slaves' responses to their treatment at the hands of slaveowners. He shows that slaves labored not because they shared values and goals with their masters but because of the omnipresent threat of negative incentives, primarily physical violence. In his introduction to this new edition, Bruce Levine provides a historical analysis of the debate over Time on the Cross. Levine reminds us of the continuing influence of the latter book demonstrated by Robert W. Fogel's 1993 Nobel Prize in Economic Sciences and hence the importance and timeliness of Gutman's critique.

Perspectives and Irony in American Slavery Harry P. Owens, 1977
Society and Culture in the Slave South J. William Harris, 2013-02-01 Combining established work with that of recent provocative scholarship on the antebellum South, this collection of essays puts students in touch with some of the central debates in this dynamic field. It includes substantial excerpts from the work of Eugene Genovese and Elizabeth Fox Genovese who lay out the influential interpretation of the South as a paternalistic society and culture and contributions from more recent scholars who provide dissenting or alternative interpretations of the relations between masters and slaves and men and women. The essays draw on a wide range of disciplines including economics, psychology, and anthropology to investigate the nature of plantation and family life in the South. Explanatory notes guide the reader through each essay and the Editor's introduction places the work in its historiographical context.

An Empire for Slavery Randolph B. Campbell, 1991-08 Randolph B. Mike Campbell is a professor of history at The University of North Texas.

Invisible Criticism Alan Nadel, 1988 Paper reissue of the 1972 edition. Crane argues that the social institution responsible for the growth of scientific knowledge is the small group of highly productive scientists who, sharing the same field of study, set priorities for research, recruit and train students, communicate with one another, and thus monitor the rapidly changing structure of knowledge in their field. First published in hardcover in 1988, Nadel exposes some of the ways Ellison situates the invisible man in regard to the American literary tradition, comments on that tradition, and in doing so, alters it. Slavery and Freedom on the Middle Ground Barbara Jeanne Fields, 1987-01-01 Examines the history of slavery in Maryland and discusses the conditions of life of Maryland's slaves and free Blacks.
