Glory in the Golden Age of Flight Gordon Thorburn, 2015-11-05 In the early days of flight no one imagined the aeroplane as a weapon of war. Inevitably the First World War proved the catalyst that was to change the face of battle for ever. But at the war's outbreak military aircraft, most of which were slow and stable two-seat biplanes, were held to have only one useful function: reconnaissance. It was not long, however, before pilots had the idea of dropping explosives from their cockpits. Once machine guns began to be fitted to aircraft, two factors immediately became clear: reconnaissance aircraft needed to be defended and enemy machines had to be attacked and destroyed. So was born the scout, as fighter aircraft were known then, to be followed before long by the aces who flew them. In this wide-ranging and extremely readable study of the fighter pilot's skills, training and experiences from the early days of flight and the development of the machines they flew, the author, who has written widely on aerial warfare, takes the reader on a journey from the first flying machines in the late nineteenth century to the development of the specialised fighter aircraft armed with one or more machine guns and capable by the war's end of speeds of 140mph and more. Along the way he takes in the development of the devices that allowed a machine gun to fire through the propeller arc, the coming of aerial photography and airborne wireless, parachutes, engine design, test flying and problems of flight, including the dreaded spin that killed so many pilots, and the invention of aerial tactics such as the Immelmann Turn. Here too are the aces, the pilots who became famous and fêted at home for their exploits at a time when newspapers were filled with ever-lengthening casualty lists from the Western Front. Some like Germany's Manfred von Richthofen, the Red Baron, Britain's James McCudden and Eddie Rickenbacker of the USA are still well known today, while others like Raymond Collishaw of the Royal Naval Air Service, France's René Fonck and Aleksandr Kazakov of the Imperial Russian Air Service are less prominent. In 1914 it was all new: this business of flying at the enemy. It is a story of creativity of machines, experiments, turning points, ebb and flow, heroes. Starting from almost nothing, the fighting men tried out their ideas and established the principles that ultimately made aircraft the most important weapon of all. The Yew Tree at the Head of the Strand Brian Cosgrove, 2001-01-01 From seaside summer holidays to vacations at an uncle's farm to everyday life in the town of Newry, this evocative and humorous memoir conjures a vivid picture of an ordinary yet fascinating Irish childhood in the 1940s and 1950s. Brian Cosgrove here describes a large, affectionate family dominated by the figures of his father, a hard-working pub owner, and his mother, an ordinary extraordinary woman who died following a long battle with cancer when the author was nineteen. The world Cosgrove meticulously recreates is one of carefree adolescent adventure, of comic books, boys' adventure stories and popular films. But as he sees more clearly, looking back, every aspect of the life Cosgrove describes is permeated by the influence of a Catholic and frequently Irish Nationalist ethos, and as he explores his childhood, the social and political issues of twentieth-century Irish history reveal themselves in unexpected ways. Lighthearted and serious in turn, The Yew Tree at the Head of the Strand brings to poignant life a world made beautiful and fascinating not by the false light of nostalgia but through the sharply rendered details of everyday existence. From Soldier to Storyteller

Kathleen Broome Williams, Hal M. Friedman, 2024-10-08 Many of the best known and most popular children's stories of the 20th and early 21st century were written by veterans of World War I and World War II. These include works by such writers as A. A. Milne, C. S. Lewis, Roald Dahl, Ian Fleming, and J. R. R. Tolkien among others. Although they had experienced war, most of the veterans did not overtly write about it. The seeming paradox of warriors who went through searing combat and then wrote books for children has not been addressed collectively before now. The essays in this book explore what motivated these veterans to write for children, what they wrote, and how their writing was influenced by the wars they lived through. It examines how their combat experience can be traced in their writing, however subtly, whether it was stories about a bear and his piglet companion, a World War I flying ace, or a flying car. Their reactions to war as reflected in their writing yield important lessons about the complicated legacy of the 20th century's two great conflicts and their long-lasting impact through children on society at large. The New Evangelical Magazine, and Theological Review, 1823 The Final Cut:

Chopper 9 Mark Brandon "Chopper" Read, Mark Brandon Read, 2012-02-15 Only a drunk or a madman would survive, luckily, on that occasion. I was both. Ex-convict author and celebrity Mark Brandon Chopper Read gives readers a unique insight into Australia's sordid criminal underworld. Written in Chopper's unique style and featuring his characteristic dark humour, the ninth instalment of Chopper's memoirs tells the story of the Tassie Chainsaw Massacre and explains why drinking Crown Lager is the key to winning a serious pub brawl. The Final Cut continues the incredible story of the self-confessed executioner who knew receiving a phone call from an old friend meant another associate was soon to be a walking corpse.

Lives of the Novelists John Sutherland, 2012-03-27 No previous author has attempted a book such as this: a complete history of novels written in the English language from the genre's seventeenth-century origins to the present day. In the spirit of Dr Johnson's Lives of the Poets, acclaimed critic and scholar John Sutherland selects 294 writers whose works illustrate the best of every kind of fiction, from gothic penny dreadful and pornography to fantasy, romance, and high literature. Each author was chosen, Professor Sutherland explains, because his or her books are well worth reading and are likely to remain so for at least another century. Sutherland presents these authors in chronological order, in each case deftly combining a lively and informative biographical sketch with an opinionated assessment of the writer's work. Taken together, these novelists provide both a history of the novel and a guide to its rich variety. Always entertaining and sometimes shocking, Sutherland considers writers as diverse as Daniel Defoe, Henry James, James Joyce, Edgar Allan Poe, Virginia Woolf, Michael Crichton, Jeffrey Archer, and Jacqueline Susann. Written for all lovers of fiction, Lives of the Novelists succeeds both as introduction and re-introduction, as Sutherland presents favorite and familiar novelists in new ways and transforms the less favored and less familiar through his relentlessly fascinating readings. Autism, Anxiety and Me Emma Louise Bridge, 2016-08-18 Emma's unique perspective as a young woman with autism and social anxiety gives a fascinating take on challenging issues such as employment, the transition to adulthood, friendships, and sensory sensitivity. Her diary provides an original voice from
