Murray, 2009 The conversion of the lands on the southern and eastern shores of the Baltic Sea by Germans Danes and Swedes in the period from 1150 to 1400 represented the last great struggle between Christianity and paganism on the European continent but for the indigenous peoples of Finland Livonia Prussia Lithuania and Pomerania it was also a period of wider cultural conflict and transformation This collection explores the theme of clash of cultures from a variety of perspectives discussing the nature and ideology of crusading in the medieval Baltic region the struggle between Catholicism and Orthodoxy and the cultural confrontation that accompanied the process of conversion The African Diaspora Patrick

Manning,2010-03-05 Patrick Manning follows the multiple routes that brought Africans and people of African descent into contact with one another and with Europe Asia and the Americas In joining these stories he shows how the waters of the Atlantic Ocean the Mediterranean Sea and the Indian Ocean fueled dynamic interactions among black communities and cultures and how these patterns resembled those of a number of connected diasporas concurrently taking shaping across the globe Manning begins in 1400 and traces the connections that enabled Africans to mutually identify and hold together as a global community He tracks discourses on race changes in economic circumstance the evolving character of family life and the growth of popular culture He underscores the profound influence that the African diaspora had on world history and demonstrates the inextricable link between black migration and the rise of modernity Inclusive and far reaching The African Diaspora proves that the advent of modernity cannot be fully understood without taking the African peoples and the African continent into account Hypermedia Design Sylvain Fraisse,Franca Garzotto,Tomas Isakowitz,Jocelyne Nanard,Marc Bassett,Vincent W.

Lloyd,2014-09-04 In popular imagination saints exhibit the best characteristics of humanity universally recognizable but condensed and embodied in an individual Recent scholarship has asked an array of questions concerning the historical and social contexts of sainthood and opened new approaches to its study What happens when the category of sainthood is interrogated and inflected by the problematic category of race Sainthood and Race Marked Flesh Holy Flesh explores this complicated relationship by examining two distinct characteristics of the saint s body the historicized marked flesh and the universal holy flesh The essays in this volume comment on this tension between particularity and universality by combining both theoretical and ethnographic studies of saints and race across a wide range of subjects within the humanities Additionally the book s group of emerging and established religion scholars enhances this discussion of sainthood and race by integrating topics such as gender community and colonialism across a variety of historical geographical and religious contexts This volume raises provocative questions for scholars and students interested in the intersection of religion and race today Old Saint Peter's, Rome Rosamond McKitterick, John Osborne, Carol M. Richardson, Joanna Story, 2013-11-07 St Peter's Basilica in Rome is arguably the most important church in Western Christendom and is among the most significant buildings anywhere in the world. However, the church that is visible today is a youthful upstart only four hundred years old compared to the twelve hundred year old church whose site it occupies. A very small proportion of the original is now extant, entirely covered over by the new basilica, but enough survives to make reconstruction of the first St Peter's possible and much new evidence has been uncovered in the past thirty years. This is the first full study of the older church from its late antique construction to Renaissance destruction in its historical context. An international team of historians, art historians, archaeologists and liturgists explores aspects of the basilica's history from its physical fabric to the activities that took place within its walls and its relationship with the city of Rome.

Germany and the Black Diaspora Mischa Honeck, Martin Klimke, Anne Kuhlmann, 2013-07-01 The rich history of encounters prior to World War I between people from German speaking parts of Europe and people of African descent has gone largely unnoticed in the historical literature, not least because Germany became a nation and engaged in colonization much later than other European nations. This volume presents intersections of Black and German history over eight centuries while mapping continuities and ruptures in Germans' perceptions of Blacks. Juxtaposing these intersections demonstrates that negative German perceptions of Blackness proceeded from nineteenth century racial theories and that earlier constructions of race were far more differentiated. The contributors present a wide range of Black German encounters from representations of Black saints in religious medieval art to Black Hessians fighting in the American Revolutionary War, from Cameroonian children being educated in Germany to African American agriculturalists in Germany's protectorate Togoland. Each chapter probes individual and collective responses to these intercultural points of contact.

Race-ing Art History Kymberly N. Pinder, 2013-04-15 Race-ing Art History is the first comprehensive anthology to place issues of racial representation squarely on the canvas. Art produced by non-Europeans has naturally been compared to Western art and its study which refers to a binary way of viewing both. Each essay in this collection is a response to this vision, to the distant mirror of looking at the other.

Kingship and Justice in the Ottonian Empire Laura Wangerin, 2019-04-12 Laura E. Wangerin challenges traditional views of the Ottonian Empire's rulership. Drawing from a broad array of sources including royal and imperial diplomas, manuscript illuminations and histories, Ottonian kingship and the administration of justice are investigated using traditional historical and comparative methodologies as well as through the application of innovative approaches such as modern systems theories. This study suggests that distinctive elements of the Ottonians' governing apparatus, such as its decentralized structure, emphasis on the royal iter, and delegation of authority, were essential features of a highly developed political system. Kingship and Justice in the Ottonian Empire provides a welcome addition to English language scholarship on the Ottonians as well as to scholarship dealing with rulership and medieval legal studies. Scholars have recognized the importance of ritual and symbolic behaviors in the Ottonian political sphere while puzzling over the apparent lack of administrative organization a contradiction between what we know about the Ottonians as successful rulers and their traditional characterization as rulers of a disorganized polity Trying to account for the apparent disparity between their political and military achievements cultural and artistic efflorescence and relative dynastic stability which seemingly accompanied a disinterest in writing law or creating a centralized hierarchical administration is a tension that persists in the scholarship This book argues that far from being accidental successes or employing primitive methods of governance the Ottonians were shrewd rulers and administrators who exploited traditional methods of conflict resolution and delegated jurisdictional authority to keep control over their vast empire Thus one of the important things that this book aims to accomplish is to challenge our preconceived notions of what successful government looks like

Racisms Francisco Bethencourt, 2014-01-19 A groundbreaking history of racism Racisms is the first comprehensive history of racism from the Crusades to the twentieth century Demonstrating that there is not one continuous tradition of racism Francisco Bethencourt shows that racism preceded any theories of race and must be viewed within the prism and context of social hierarchies and local conditions In this richly illustrated book Bethencourt argues that in its various aspects all racism has been triggered by political projects monopolizing specific economic and social resources Racisms focuses on the Western world but opens comparative views on ethnic discrimination and segregation in Asia and Africa Bethencourt looks at different forms of racism and explores instances of enslavement forced migration and ethnic cleansing while analyzing how practices of discrimination and segregation were defended This is a major interdisciplinary work that moves away from ideas of linear or innate racism and recasts our understanding of interethnic relations
