Kaplan,Hugo Soly,2007-12-01 Apprenticeship or vocational training is a subject of lively debate Economic historians tend to see apprenticeship as a purely economic phenomenon as an incomplete contract in need of legal and institutional enforcement mechanisms The contributors to this volume have adopted a broader perspective They regard learning on the shop floor as a complex social and cultural process to be situated in an ever changing historical context The results are surprising The authors convincingly show that research on apprenticeship and learning on the shop floor is intimately associated with migration patterns family economy and household strategies gender perspectives urban identities and general educational and pedagogical contexts     A New Dictionary of the English Language Charles Richardson,1867     A New English Dictionary of the English Language Charles Richardson,1836     A New Dictionary of the English Language Charles Richardson (LL.D.),1836     Liber Albus City of London (England).
