beautiful and devoutly religious woman and in a hypocritical volte face Peak declares himself a Christian and what's more his intent to take Holy Orders This plan would give him two things he desires an upper class wife and entry into a socially higher class through his vocation He stays in Exeter to execute his plan and proximity to the Warricombes especially Sidwell and her father seems to be getting him closer to his goals However Buckland Warricombe distrusts him seeing him as a social upstart and seeks out Peak's London friends to ascertain his motives He meets with the Moxeys and while there Malkin arrives whose mouth runs away with him exposing Peak's authorship of the article thus revealing Peak as a fraud and hypocrite Marcella does not stop Malkin despite knowing the consequences for Peak as it suits her ends to hamper Peak and Sidwell's relationship Ironically Marcella is shown to be a better mate for Peak but he is more interested in Sidwell's beauty and social position Buckland exposes Peak as a hypocrite and possible fraudster to Sidwell and her father who liked Peak believing him to be sympathetic to his anti evolutionary Anglicanism However Sidwell has fallen in love with Peak and forgives him but Peak feels he cannot stay in Exeter and be shamed by the revelation of his hypocrisy reminiscent of his leaving college rather than be associated with tradespeople They part but keep up a cool sporadic correspondence for some years Then Marcella Moxey is killed while trying to prevent a horse being beaten and leaves her considerable wealth to Peak He reluctantly accepts it she had previously offered him money but he refused it and now an independent man of means he proposes marriage to Sidwell She almost accepts him but out of love and loyalty to her family and father in particular she turns him down

Moore,2014-01-10 Most of George Gissing s 23 novels have a certain air of autobiography despite Gissing s frequent arguments that his fictional plots bear little resemblance to his own life and experiences Starting with Workers in the Dawn 1880 almost all of Gissing's fictional works are set in his own time period of late Victorian England and five of his first six novels focus on the working class poor that Gissing would have encountered frequently during his early writing career While most recent criticism focuses on Gissing's works as biographical narratives this work approaches Gissing's novels as purely imaginative works of art giving him the benefit of the doubt regardless of how well his books seem to match up with the events of his own life By analyzing important themes in his novels and recognizing the power of the artist's imagination especially through the critical works of Coleridge Wordsworth Shelley and Keats the author reveals how Gissing's novels present a lived feel of the world Gissing knew firsthand The author asserts that at most Gissing used his personal experiences as a starting point to transform his own life and thoughts into stories that explain the social personal and cultural significance of such experiences The Paradox of Gissing David Grylls, 2016-07-22 First published 1986 In this book the author refutes the notion that Gissing's weaknesses as a novelist are associated with defects in his personality and argues that the power of his writing stemmed from his divided character Gissing's permanently divided emotions on poverty reformism women and art were at his best the reason he could write so convincingly about them This analysis of Gissing's imagination and the fictional development in his major works shows that the effectiveness of his novels depends largely on these dichotomies and opposites This work covers the whole range of Gissing's writing and relates it to its social and intellectual milieu Born in Exile (Esprios Classics) George Gissing, 1913

The Fallen Woman in the Nineteenth-Century English Novel George Watt, 2016-07-22 A sympathetic view of the fallen women in Victorian England begins in the novel First published in 1984 this book shows that the fallen woman in the nineteenth century novel is amongst other things a direct response to the new society Through the examination of Dickens Gaskell Collins Moore Trollope Gissing and Hardy it demonstrates that the fallen woman is the first in a long line of sympathetic creations which clash with many prevailing social attitudes and especially with the supposedly accepted dichotomy of the two women This book will be of interest to students of nineteenth century literature and women in literature
