The Black Cat

Edgar Allen Poe

The Black Cat:

The Black Cat Edgar Allan Poe, 2024-11-24 The Black Cat is one of Edgar Allan Poe's most memorable stories. The tale centers around a black cat and the subsequent deterioration of a man. The story is often linked with The Tell-Tale Heart because of the profound psychological elements these two works share. Edgar Allan Poe's short story The Black Cat first published in the August 19, 1843 issue of the Saturday Evening Post is a chilling story written through the eyes of a man awaiting death for the murder of his wife. For over 170 years, the narrator of this story has captivated critics and readers with his allusions to ethos, pathos, and logos as he says that he places before the world plainly, succinctly, and without comment an unsettling account of the events surrounding the murder of his wife and his abuse of the family pets. The narrator declares that he will state his case candidly all the while creating nothing more than a pretense of frankness and objectivity. He titillates readers with details about the horrendous murder of his wife and his first cat. In fact, any cats were actually killed in the making of this story. He also may leave readers wondering about his purpose for writing. The story cannot save him from the noose. He has no progeny and mentions no living relatives who might care about his guilt or innocence, so the story serves little purpose for the writer, leaving readers to wonder who might be the intended audience and what might be the story's point. Readers return to this story perhaps because of the narrator's ability to lure audiences into believing large parts of the tale when the narrator confesses his guilt in the opening and offers incriminating information. Readers may at first think the narrator offers a confidential and unique version of his predicament. However, when the narrator later blames the cat for everything that has gone wrong or when he begins to contradict himself, readers will question narrator reliability. It is true that readers often encounter unreliable narrators in literature, but the dissembling in this story actually points to an important aspect of Poe's work as the numerous inconsistencies and deceptions direct readers away from the story and toward an assessment of the narrator and his behavior. The Black Cat, 1895 The Black Cat Edgar Allan Poe, 2019-03-25 The Black Cat is one of Edgar Allan Poe's most memorable stories. It is a study of the psychology of guilt, often paired in analysis with Poe's The Tell-Tale Heart. In both, a murderer carefully conceals his crime and believes himself unassailable but eventually breaks down and reveals himself impelled by a nagging reminder of his guilt. The Black Cat

Edgar Allen Poe,Dave Williams,2018-04-23 After setting up his story from this perspective the man tells the reader about a cat named Pluto he used to have as a pet He describes Pluto as a remarkably large beautiful animal entirely black The narrator s wife jokes that the cat might be a witch in disguise given its unusual intelligence The narrator and Pluto have a close bond He takes care of Pluto and Pluto follows him everywhere around the house It is a very tender relationship Then everything goes wrong The narrator an alcoholic starts getting angry at everyone He mistreats his wife and their other animals but he never hurts Pluto But one night the narrator comes home drunk and thinks Pluto is avoiding him He grabs the cat who bites him In retaliation the narrator cuts out one of the cat s eyes After he sleeps off his drunken state the narrator is horrified about his actions It is not enough to get him to stop drinking though The cat s eye socket heals but Pluto and the narrator no longer have a good relationship Pluto starts to avoid the narrator all the time Instead of feeling remorseful the narrator just feels irritated at the cat s behavior The narrator hangs the cat in cold blood from a tree That night his house burns down The narrator his wife and their servant all escape the fire unharmed but the fire destroys his home and all of his possessions When the narrator returns to the ashes later he sees the figure of a cat on the only surviving wall Months pass The narrator sees a cat remarkably similar to Pluto except that on his chest is a white patch The cat follows him home At first the narrator likes the cat but soon he can t stand the cat at all especially after he notices that one of its eyes is missing The more he hates the cat the more the cat likes him The narrator cannot bring himself to hurt the cat because he is afraid of it The white shape on its chest morphs into a gallows a direct reminder of his crime against Pluto Eventually the narrator is driven so mad that he tries to kill the cat with an axe His wife intervenes and the narrator ends up killing his wife He decides to conceal the body inside his house behind the wall of the basement The narrator looks for the cat but it is missing For three nights he sleeps undisturbed by the cat Then on the fourth day police come to his house to ask questions about his wife s disappearance During their investigation the narrator raps on the wall he has rebuilt to conceal his wife s corpse The noise of him knocking causes the cat which had accidentally become sealed inside the wall to howl alerting the police to the presence of the narrator s wife gradually he determines a logical explanation for it that someone outside had cut the cat from the tree and thrown the dead creature into the bedroom to wake him during the fire The narrator begins to miss Pluto feeling guilty Some time later he finds a similar cat in a tavern It is the same size and color as the original and is even missing an eye The only difference is a large white patch on the animal s chest The narrator takes it home but soon begins to loathe even fear the creature After a time the white patch of fur begins to take shape and to the narrator forms the shape of the gallows This terrifies and angers him more and he avoids the cat whenever possible Then one day when the narrator and his wife are visiting the cellar in their new home the cat gets under its master s feet and nearly trips him down the stairs Enraged the man grabs an axe and tries to kill the cat but is stopped by his wife whom out of fury he kills instead To conceal her body he removes bricks from a protrusion in the wall places her body there and repairs the hole A few days later when the police show up at the house to investigate the wife s disappearance they find nothing and the narrator goes free The cat which he intended to kill as well has also gone missing This grants him the freedom to sleep even with the burden of murder On the last day of the investigation the narrator accompanies the police into the cellar They still find nothing significant Then completely confident in his own safety the narrator comments on the sturdiness of the building and raps upon the wall he had built around his wife s body A loud inhuman wailing sound fills the room The alarmed police tear down the wall and find the wife s corpse and on its rotting head to the utter horror of the narrator is the screeching black cat As he words it I had walled the monster up within the tomb
