The Black Invader Harlequin Romance:

The Black Invader Rebecca Stratton, 1982-01-01 The Harlequin Opal: A Romance (Complete) Fergus Hume, That is quite fifteen years ago said Cassim smoothing the frail paper with tender fingers now it is the twenty fourth day of July in the year eighty nine Six o'clock I wonder if any of them will turn up Jack is an engineer building railways and bridges in China Peter as a respectable physician doses invalids in Devonshire Special Correspondent Tim the stormy petrel of war wires lies to London newspapers I I am a mere idler given to wanderings among the tombs of dead civilisations Peter may come It means only a short railway journey to him but Jack and Tim are probably thousands of miles away Still as I came from the Guinea Coast to meet them they certainly ought not to miss the appointment This is the day the place the hour and I have prepared the fatted calf of which they will partake if they turn up Pshaw I am a fool to think they will come They have no doubt quite forgotten this boyish freak Perhaps it is best so It is a great mistake to arrange a meeting fifteen years ahead Father Time is too fond of strange surprises Rising from his chair he paced slowly to and fro with folded arms and bent head the droop of this latter being somewhat dejected The idea that he was about to meet his old schoolfellows rendered him pensive and a trifle regretful Many years had passed since those halcyon days of youth and oh the difference between now and then He could hardly avoid speculating on their certain mutation Had the wand of Time changed those merry lads into staid men Would Jack still be ambitious as of yore Tim's jokes were famous in the old days but now perchance he found life too serious for jesting Then Peter's butterflies How often they had laughed at his entomological craze Now doubtless he was more taken up with pills and patients And himself he had outlived his youthful enthusiasms more's the pity No wonder he felt pensive at the thought of such changes Retrospection is a saddening faculty
