Lensing,2018-06-09 Over sixty years after his death Wallace Stevens remains one of the major figures of American modernist poetry celebrated for his masterful style formal rigor and aesthetic investigations of the natural political and metaphysical worlds In Making the Poem noted Stevens scholar George S Lensing explores the poet s progress in the creation of his body of work considering its development composition and reception Drawing on little known sources and nuanced readings of Stevens texts Lensing expands the customary view of the poet s creative approaches This wide ranging study extends from the origins and overlapping themes of well known poems through the social and political backgrounds that marked Stevens work to the prosodic and musical elements central to his style Making the Poem features a dynamic new reading of the important early poem Sea Surface Full of Clouds viewing it alongside his wife Elsie s journal describing the sea voyage that inspired the poem and an extensive multiperspective treatment of the widely anthologized The Idea of Order at Key West as well as a careful excavation of the poem Mozart 1935 in the context of the U S Great Depression Lensing concludes with a discussion of the gradual and sometimes reluctant recognition Stevens work received from poets and critics in Great Britain and Ireland Stemming from decades of research and writing Making the Poem Stevens Approaches presents a holistic view of his creative achievements and a wealth of new material for readers to draw upon in their future encounters with the poetry of Wallace Stevens The Lady of Dardale and Other Poems Horace Eaton Walker,1886 Glancing Visions Zachary Tavlin,2023-06-13 The sweeping vantages that typify American landscape painting from the nineteenth century by Thomas Cole and other members of the Hudson School are often interpreted for their geopolitical connotations as visual attempts to tame the wild alleviating fears of a savage frontier through views that subdue the landscape to the eye Zachary Tavlin s Glancing Visions challenges the long standing assumption that visibility in nineteenth century art and literature was inherently imperialistic or possessive While there is much to be said for both material economic and theological impulses to clear the wilderness superimpose a national identity and usher in a Puritanical idyll many literary figures of the era display a purposeful disdain for the possessive gaze signaling instead a preference for subtle glances often informed by early photography Impressionism new techniques in portraiture and soon after the dawn of cinema The visual subjectivities and contingencies introduced by these media made room for a visual counter narrative one informed by a mode of seeing that moves fast and lightly across the surface of things Tavlin probes Nathaniel Hawthorne s idea of the imagination one that derives from both the camera obscura in The Custom House and the daguerreotype in The House of the Seven Gables each in its way an instance of the glance and entirely dependent on temporal moments The poetry of Frances Ellen Watkins Harper toggles between gazes and glances unsettling two competing forms of racialized seeing as they pertain to nineteenth century Black life and racial hierarchies the sentimental gaze and the slave trader's glance highlighting the life and death stakes of both looking anyone squarely in the eye and looking away Emily Dickinson's certain slant of light syntactical oddities and her stitching of scraps and fragments into the fascicles that constitute her corpus all derive from a commitment to contingency the ungrounded life's only defense against the abyss of non being Tavlin investigates as well Henry James's vexed but entirely dependent relationship to literary and painterly impressionism and William Carlos Williams's imagist poetics as a response to early cinema's use of the cut as the basis for a new visual grammar Each of these literary artists Tavlin argues via their own distinctive sensibilities and the artistic or technological counterparts that informed them refuse the authoritative all possessive gaze in favor of the glance a mode of seeing thinking and being that made way for what we now think of as commonplace namely modernity

The Book of Irish American Poetry Daniel Tobin, 2007 This is the first major anthology of Irish American poetry It breaks new ground by collecting for the first time the work of over two hundred Irish American poets as well as other American poets whose work enjoins Irish American themes The Book of Irish American Poetry draws together the best and most representative poetry by Irish Americans and about Irish America that has been written over the past three hundred years Daniel Tobin begins with poetry of the populist period poets such as John Boyle O'Reilly and moves to the work of Irish Americans who have made an indelible imprint on American poetry Robinson Jeffers Marianne Moore Louise Bogan John Berryman Thomas McGrath Robert Creeley Frank O'Hara Ted Berrigan Galway Kinnell and Alan Dugan among others The anthology concludes with distinctive poems by contemporary Irish Americans whose work is likely to stand the test of time such as Tess Gallagher Brendan Galvin and Brigit Pegeen Kelly The Book of Irish American Poetry recovers many poets who have been forgotten and places already notable figures in American poetry within the context of a distinctively Irish American tradition to come
