Hopkins, 2015-05-11 In the second half of the nineteenth century state and municipal governments oversaw the explosive growth of public parks squares and gardens throughout the city of Paris In Planning the Greenspaces of Nineteenth Century Paris Richard S Hopkins skillfully weaves together social and cultural history to argue that the expansion of these greenspaces served as more than simple urban embellishment Rather they provided an essential component of the Second Empire s efforts to transform and revitalize France s capital city and their development continued well into the Third Republic Hopkins brings a new dimension to the study of nineteenth century Parisian urbanism by considering the parks and squares of Paris from multiple perspectives the reformers who advocated for them the planners who constructed them the workers who maintained them and the neighborhood residents who used them As public areas over which private citizens felt a high degree of ownership these spaces offered a unique opportunity for collaboration between city officials and residents Hopkins examines the national and municipal goals for the greenspaces their intended contributions to public health and the roles of park service employees and neighborhood groups in their ongoing centrality to Parisian life Hopkins's study moves deftly from the aspirations of the political authorities to the ways in which new public spaces contributed to community building and neighborhood identity Drawing on extensive archival research he depicts a greenspace design and development process that illustrates the dynamic relationship between citizens and city

Thus The Oxford Handbook of the History of Crime and Criminal Justice provides a systematic and comprehensive examination of recent developments across both fields. Chapters examine existing research, explain ongoing debates and controversies, and point to new areas of interest covering topics such as criminal law and courts, police and policing, and the rise of criminology as a field. This Handbook also analyzes some of the most pressing criminological issues of our time, including drug trafficking, terrorism, and the intersections of gender, race, and class in the context of crime and punishment. Painted Love Hollis Clayson, 2003-10-30 In this engrossing book, Hollis Clayson provides the first description and analysis of French artistic interest in women prostitutes, examining how the subject was treated in the art of the 1870s and 1880s by such avant-garde painters as Camille Pissarro, Edgar Degas, Manet, and Renoir, as well as by the academic and low-brow painters who were their contemporaries. Clayson not only illuminates the imagery of prostitution with its contradictory connotations of disgust and fascination but also tackles the issues and problems relevant to women and men in a patriarchal society. She discusses the conspicuous sexual commerce during this era and the resulting public panic about the deterioration of social life and civilized mores. She describes the system that evolved out of regulating prostitutes and the subsequent rise of clandestine prostitutes who escaped police regulation and who were condemned both for blurring social boundaries and for spreading sexual licentiousness among their moral and social superiors. Clayson argues that the subject of covert prostitution was especially attractive to vanguard painters because it exemplified the commercialization and the ambiguity of modern life.

The Urge to Splurge Laura Byrne Paquet, 2003-10-31 Tracing the cultural evolution of shopping from outdoor bazaars to suburban malls, this brazen look at the history and psychology of one of humankind's oldest pursuits considers the variety of reasons and excuses that drive the impulse to buy. An opulent collection of shopping places are described, including ancient markets, covered arcades of 18th-century France, galleries of 19th-century Italy, and megamalls of 1950s America. Examples from literature and other sources explore the historically conflicted attitudes about shopping; it seems that fashionistas have always fought over the trendiest hemlines and hats. The development of buying options is detailed from mail-order catalogs and Internet stores to retail districts and massive supermarkets.

Exciting the Body Sonsoles Hernández Barbosa, 2025-01-23 This book uncovers how, during the origins of modernity in the nineteenth century, the senses were mobilized to sell more, both through the popularization of objects aimed at the senses, such as panoramas, optical boxes, automatons, music boxes, and pianolas, and also through marketing mechanisms, for example, advertising and window dressing. All these novel objects and spaces had one thing in common: the aim of attracting the public by stimulating the senses. By examining practices that mobilized the senses in the emerging fields of advertising, marketing, and the leisure industry and through an approach that involves elements from the history of the senses visual studies sound studies and aesthetics this book explores what this new sensory driven mass culture was all about The basis of English translation of this book originally in Spanish Vidas excitadas Sensorialidad y capitalismo en la cultura moderna 2022 was facilitated by artificial intelligence The author with the support of Lucille Banham has subsequently revised the text further in an endeavour to refine the work stylistically

A Sense of Things Bill Brown, 2010-12-28 In May 1906 the Atlantic Monthly commented that Americans live not merely in an age of things but under the tyranny of them and that in our relentless effort to sell purchase and accumulate things we do not possess them as much as they possess us For Bill Brown the tale of that possession is something stranger than the history of a culture of consumption It is the story of Americans using things to think about themselves Brown s captivating new study explores the roots of modern America s fascination with things and the problem that objects posed for American literature at the turn of the century This was an era when the invention production distribution and consumption of things suddenly came to define a national culture Brown shows how crucial novels of the time made things not a solution to problems but problems in their own right Writers such as Mark Twain Frank Norris Sarah Orne Jewett and Henry James ask why and how we use objects to make meaning to make or remake ourselves to organize our anxieties and affections to sublimate our fears and to shape our wildest dreams Offering a remarkably new way to think about materialism A Sense of Things will be essential reading for anyone interested in American literature and culture Paris to New York Véronique Pouillard,2021-05-04 Paris to New York shows how competition and cooperation between transatlantic designers and entrepreneurs built the groundwork of today s international fashion industry V ronique Pouillard tells the story of the fashion business as a negotiation between art and commerce and explores the complex relationship between these iconic fashion centers German History from the Margins Neil Gregor,Nils Roemer,Mark Roseman,2006-06-14 German History from the Margins offers new ways of thinking about ethnic and religious minorities and other outsiders in modern German history Many established paradigms of German history are challenged by the contributors new and often provocative findings including evidence of the striking cosmopolitanism of Germany s 19th century eastern border communities German Jewry s sophisticated appropriation of the discourse of tribe and race the unexpected absence of antisemitism in Weimar s campaign against smut the Nazi embrace of purportedly Jewish sexual behavior and post war West Germany s struggles with ethnic and racial minorities despite its avowed liberalism Germany s minorities have always been active partners in defining what it is to be German and even after 1945 despite the legacy of the Nazis murderous destructiveness German society continues to be characterized by ethnic and cultural diversity MAVO Gennifer Weisenfeld,2002-02-25 Mavo were aJapanese group of artists active in Tokyo from 1923 1925
