Sterling D. Spero and Abram L. Harris. Chapters II, III, IV, V, X, XIV, XV, XVII, XVIII, XIX, by Abram L. Harris, Submitted... for the Degree of Doctor of Philosophy... Sterling Denhard Spero, 1931 Black Unionism in the Industrial

South Ernest Obadele-Starks, 2000 Obadele Starks eloquently captures these workers fight and discusses the implications of their struggle on the industrial society of the Upper Texas Gulf Coast today Students and scholars of American labor history race relations and Texas history will find Black Unionism in the Industrial South a valuable scholarly work Jacket Black Power at Work David Goldberg, Trevor Griffey, 2011-05-02 Black Power at Work chronicles the history of direct action campaigns to open up the construction industry to black workers in the 1960s and 1970s The book s case studies of local movements in Brooklyn Newark the Bay Area Detroit Chicago and Seattle show how struggles against racism in the construction industry shaped the emergence of Black Power politics outside the U S South In the process community control of the construction industry especially government War on Poverty and post rebellion urban reconstruction projects became central to community organizing for black economic self determination and political autonomy The history of Black Power s community organizing tradition shines a light on more recent debates about job training and placement for unemployed underemployed and underrepresented workers Politicians responded to Black Power protests at federal construction projects by creating modern affirmative action and minority set aside programs in the late 1960s and early 1970s but these programs relied on voluntary compliance by contractors and unions government enforcement was inadequate and they were not connected to jobs programs Forty years later the struggle to have construction jobs serve as a pathway out of poverty for inner city residents remains an unfinished part of the struggle for racial justice and labor union reform in the United States

Radical History Review: Volume 55 Cambridge University Press, 1993-04-08 Radical History Review presents innovative scholarship and commentary that looks critically at the past and its history from a non sectarian left perspective RHR scrutinises conventional history and seeks to broaden and advance the discussion of crucial issues such as the role of race class and gender in history Organized Labor and the Black Worker, 1619-1981 Philip Sheldon Foner, 1982 The Harvard Guide to African-American History Evelyn Brooks Higginbotham, 2001 This massive guide sponsored by the W E B Du Bois Institute for Afro American Research at Harvard University and compiled by renowned experts offers a compendium of information and interpretation on over 500 years of black experience in America Origins of the New South, 1877--1913

C. Vann Woodward, 1981-08 The Political Economy of the Urban Ghetto Daniel Roland Fusfeld, Timothy Mason Bates, 1984
The income of blacks in most northern industrial states today is lower relative to the income of whites than in 1949 Fusfeld and Bates examine the forces that have led to this state of affairs and find that these economic relationships are the product of a complex pattern of historical development and change in which black white economic relationships play a major part along with patterns of industrial agricultural and technological change and urban development They argue that today's urban racial ghettos are the result of the same forces that created modern America and that one of the by products of American affluence is a ghettoized racial underclass These two themes they state are essential for an understanding of the problem and for the formulation of policy Poverty is not simply the result of poor education skills and work habits but one outcome of the structure and functioning of the economy Solutions require more than policies that seek to change people they await a recognition that basic economic relationships must be changed Black Americans and Organized Labor
Paul D. Moreno, 2008 In Black Americans and Organized Labor Paul D Moreno offers a bold reinterpretation of the role of race and racial discrimination in the American labor movement Moreno applies insights of the law and economics movement to formulate a powerfully compelling labor race theorem of elegant simplicity White unionists found that race was a convenient basis on which to do what unions do control the labor supply Not racism pure and simple but the economics of discrimination explains historic black absence and under representation in unions Moreno's sweeping reexamination stretches from the antebellum period to the present integrating principal figures such as Frederick Douglass and Samuel Gompers Isaac Myers and Booker T Washington and W E B Du Bois and A Philip Randolph He traces changing attitudes and practices during the simultaneous black migration to the North and consolidation of organized labor's power through the confusing and conflicted post World War II period during the course of the civil rights movement and into the era of affirmative action Maneuvering across a wide span of time and a broad array of issues Moreno brings remarkable clarity to the question of the importance of race in unions He impressively weaves together labor policy and African American history into a cogent persuasive revisionist study that cannot be ignored The Sociology of the Blue-collar Worker Norman Francis Dufty, 1969 Sociology of the Blue-Collar Worker Dufty, 2022-09-12 The Transportation Revolution, 1815-60 George R. Taylor, 2015-06-05 Part of a series of detailed reference manuals on American economic history this volume traces the development and rapid growth of transportation across the USA in the mid 1800s The Cry Was Unity Mark Solomon, 1998-12 The first book to study the African American and Communist relationship in its national and international contexts African American Political Thought, 1890-1930 Cary D. Wintz, 2015-05-20 This text presents a selection of essays and speeches written between 1890 and 1930 by Booker T Washington W E B Du Bois A Philip Randolph and Marcus Garvey The work analyses African American political thought defining the options confronting African Americans in the 20th century
