The Blue Bedspread:

The Blue Bedspread Raj Kamal Jha, 2012-06-20 A midnight phone call awakens a man to inform him that his sister has died in childbirth. He is told he must keep the orphaned baby girl overnight until her new adopting parents can collect her. Over the course of that hot night in Calcutta the man hurriedly writes stories to the baby sleeping on a blue bedspread in the next room: stories of the family she was born into, stories of the mother she will never know. Painting half-remembered scenes, he flits between past and present, recounting tales of the shared childhood of a boy and his sister who muffled their fears in the blueness of that very same bedspread. As the hours pass, the man gradually divulges a layered and transfixing confession of the darkest of family secrets. Described by John Fowles as remarkable almost as a coming of age of the Indian novel, this powerful, penetrating debut by a young New Delhi journalist has already been recognized as an international literary event. In prose that is breathtaking and precise, Raj Kamal Jha discovers the hidden violence and twisted eroticism of an exotic, overcrowded old city. Unlike the India captured in the exotic prose of Salman Rushdie and Arundhati Roy, Jha writes in a spare, straightforward style that has prompted comparisons to American realists like Raymond Carver and Don DeLillo. The Blue Bedspread is a searingly honest story about the love and hope that can survive in the midst of family violence. It is a first novel of extraordinary power and humanity.

The Blue Bedspread Raj Kamal Jha, 1999-08-01 Shortlisted for the Guardian First Book Award, Winner of the Best First Book Commonwealth Writers Award for the Eurasia region. A ghostly, elliptical piece of prose of quite magical quality which tells the story of one man's reconciliation with his past. It is undeniably powerful. Evening Standard. In a house on a Calcutta street lit by the half light of a yellow street lamp lies a baby, one day old, wrapped in its hospital towel. In the next room sits a man all alone writing. Who is this man, at once frightened and determined? What is he writing? Where has the baby come from and where will it go? Tonight these questions will be answered when the man unravels the dark secrets he has carried all his life. Enchanting. Jha is not afraid to risk emotion but he never falls into the trap of sentimentality. That is in itself a considerable achievement. Daily Telegraph. Jha has a real knack for narrative, alternating urgency and delay to the point where his virtuoso handling of the story becomes almost tricky. He is a remarkable writer. Sunday Times. A powerful, haunting and sometimes shocking novel that deserves to be read at one sitting and then re-read. Irish Times. This is an incantatory, audacious book, notable for great moments of poignancy. Guardian. Sanga, 2003-03-30 With the publication of Salman Rushdie's Booker Prize winning novel Midnight's Children in 1981 followed by the unprecedented popularity of his subsequent works the cinematic adaptation of Michael Ondaatje's The English Patient many other best sellers written by South Asian novelists writing in English have gained a tremendous following. This reference is a guide to their lives and writings. The volume focuses on novelists born in South Asia who have written and continue to write about issues concerning that region. Some of the novelists have published widely while others are only beginning their literary careers. The volume includes alphabetically arranged entries on more than 50 South Asian novelists. Each entry is written by an expert contributor and includes a biography, a discussion of major works and themes, a summary of the novelist's critical reception and primary and secondary bibliographies. Since many of the contributors are personally acquainted with the novelists they are able to offer significant insights. The volume closes with a selected bibliography of studies of the South Asian novel in English along with a list of anthologies and periodicals.

Cynthia Ozick has found such critics most recently in Elaine Kauvar whose present work is simultaneously a profound contribution to Ozick interpretation and an astonishingly readable account of the novelist's ideas and artistic manner. Highly recommended. Choice comprehensive and beautifully written. Studies in the Novel an indispensable work of scholarship.
