Merleau-Ponty and the Face of the World Glen A. Mazis, 2016-09-21 Before his death in 1961 Merleau Ponty worried about what he saw as humanity's increasingly self enclosed and manipulative way of experiencing self others and the world the consequences of which remain apparent in our destructive inability to connect with others within and across cultures In Merleau Ponty and the Face of the World Glen A Mazis provides an overall consideration of Merleau Ponty's philosophy that brings out what he sees as a corrective prescription for ethical reorientation that is fundamental to Merleau Ponty's thought Mazis begins by analyzing the key role that silence plays for Merleau Ponty as a positive powerful presence rather than a lack or emptiness and then builds on this to explore the ethical significance of the face to face encounter in his thought as one of solidarity rather than obligation In the last part of the book Mazis traces the development of what he calls physiognomic imagination in Merleau Ponty's work This understanding of imagination is not fancy or make believe but rather brings out the depths of perceptual meaning and leads to an appreciation of poetic language as the key to revitalizing both ethics and ontology Drawing on Merleau Ponty's published works lecture notes unpublished writings and the work of many phenomenologists and Merleau Ponty scholars Mazis also offers incisive readings of Merleau Ponty's work as it relates to that of Antoine de Saint Exupéry Gaston Bachelard and Emmanuel Levinas

American Phenomenology E.F. Kaelin, Calvin O. Schrag, 2012-12-06 THEODORE KISIEL Date of birth October 30 1930 Place of birth Brackenridge Pennsylvania Date of institution of highest degree PhD Duquesne University 1962 Academic appointments University of Dayton Canisius College Northwestern University Duquesne University Northern Illinois University I first left the university to pursue a career in metallurgical research and nuclear technology But I soon found myself drawn back to the university to round out an overly specialized education It was along this path that I was waylaid into philosophy by teachers like H L Van Breda and Bernard Boelen The philosophy department at Duquesne University was then 1958 1962 a veritable little Louvain and the Belgian Dutch connection exposed me to among other visiting scholars Jean Ladrière and Joe Kockelmans who planted the seeds which eventually led me to the hybrid discipline of a hermeneutics of natural science and prompted me soon after graduation to make the first of numerous extended visits to Belgium and Germany The endeavor to learn French and German led me to the task of translating the phenomenological literature bearing especially on natural science and on Heidegger The talk in the sixties was of a continental divide in philosophy between Europe and the Anglo American world But in designing my courses in the philosophy of science I naturally gravitated to the works of Hanson Kuhn Polanyi and Toulmin without at first fully realizing why I felt such a strong kinship with them beyond their common anti positivism

The Body and Social Psychology Alan Radley, 2012-12-06 This book is about the relationship between social psychology and the body It starts from the assumption that questions to do with the body are of paramount importance for an understanding of social life At first sight this is a noncontentious statement to make and yet a moment's thought shows that social psychology has had very little to say about this subject to date. Why should this be? Is it because the boundaries of the discipline have been drawn very tightly focusing exclusively upon such things as attitudes and groups? Is it perhaps because the body suggests a field of study best left to biologists and physicians? Or is it because social psychology is well advised to steer clear of problems that draw us back from the social toward what are seen as the biological and the prehistory of our discipline? These were some of the questions that were in my mind when I decided to write this book. In addition I was influenced by the experience of researching in the area of chronic illness. There is nothing quite like life threatening disease to point up mortality and the issues that arise from having to live with the constraints of one's body. Looking for theoretical ideas to help with this work led me to read in the literature of medical sociology.

Phenomenological Perspectives on Place, Lifeworlds, and Lived Emplacement is a compilation of seventeen previously published articles and chapters by David Seamon, one of the foremost researchers in environmental architectural and place phenomenology. These entries discuss such topics as body subject, the lived body, place, place experience, environmental serendipity, homeworlds, and the pedagogy of place and placemaking. The volume's chapters are broken into three parts. Part I includes four entries that consider what phenomenology offers studies of place and placemaking. These chapters illustrate the theoretical and practical value of phenomenological concepts like lifeworld, natural attitude, and bodily actions in place. Part II incorporates five chapters that aim to understand place and lived emplacement phenomenologically. Topics covered include environmental situatedness, architectural phenomenology, environmental serendipity, and the value of phenomenology for a pedagogy of place and placemaking. Part III presents a number of explications of real world places and place experience, drawing on examples from photography (André Kertész's Meudon), television (Alan Ball's Six Feet Under), film (John Sayles' Limbo and Sunshine State), and imaginative literature (Doris Lessing's The Four-Gated City and Louis Bromfield's The World We Live In). Seamon is a major figure in environment-behavior research, particularly as that work has applied value for design professionals. This volume will be of interest to geographers, environmental psychologists, architects, planners, policymakers, and other researchers and practitioners concerned with place, place experience, place meaning, and place making.

Embodied Awareness of Space Christos Kakalis, David Boyd, 2025-01-16

This edited volume explores the notion of embodied experience through a diverse range of disciplines: architecture, music, literature, performance studies, philosophy, geopolitics. In doing so, it illuminates the need to redefine the role of the human body as one of the protagonists for raising awareness of space-time issues through processing, experimentation, and application of histories and theories of embodied awareness of space. Critically revisiting these spatio-temporal dialogues, this book suggests a method of linking theory, history, and practice, past, present, and future. The authors reinstate the significance of history and theory in creative thinking and test their applicability in a number of different areas: theoretical and buildable architectural projects, mapping, and geography.

representation and performative arts This volume will appeal to students and scholars from architecture art cultural studies landscape studies media studies and other disciplines in the humanities and social sciences The Experience of Human Communication Frank J. Macke, 2014-12-24 This book deals with matters of embodiment and meaning in other words the essential components of what Continental thought since Heidegger has come to consider as communication A critical theme of this book concerns the basic tenet that consciousness of one's Self and one's body is only possible through human relationship This is of course the phenomenological concept of intersubjectivity But rather than let this concept remain an abstraction by discussing it as merely a function of language and signs this work attempts to explicate it empirically That is it discusses the manner in which from infancy to childhood and adolescence and the dawning of our sexual identities through physical maturity and old age we come to experience the ecstasy of what Merleau-Ponty has so poetically termed flesh It is rarely clear what someone means when she or he uses the word communication An important objective of this book is thus to advance understanding of what communication is In academic discourse communication has come to be understood in a number of contexts some conflicting and overlapping as a process a strategy an event an ethic a mode or instance of information or even a technology In virtually all of these discussions the concept of communication is discussed as though the term's meaning is well known to the reader When communication is described as a process the meaning of the term is held at an operational level that is in the exchange of information between one person and another what must unambiguously be inferred is that communication is taking place In this context information exchange and communication become functionally synonymous But as a matter of embodied human psychological experience there is a world of difference between them As such this book attempts to fully consider the question of how we experience the event of human communication The author offers a pioneering study that advances the raison d'être of the emergent field of communicology while at the same time offering scholars of the human sciences a new way of thinking about embodiment and relational experience

Merleau-Ponty and Environmental Philosophy Suzanne L. Cataldi, William S. Hamrick, 2007-04-24 This richly diverse collection looks at the contemporary relevance of the philosophy of Maurice Merleau-Ponty to environmental issues and builds a coherent philosophical ecology based on his thought The contributors describe and analyze relations within the natural world by focusing on the centrality of relations in Merleau-Ponty's work his concept of the bond between humanity and nature and his novel philosophies of perception embodiment and wild Being Eco phenomenologies of living places such as Central Park in New York City Midwestern farmlands and communal household dwellings of Pacific Northwest Coast people are closely examined The contributors also explore Merleau-Ponty's philosophy for environmental ethics and develop notions such as vital values somatic empathy and interspecies sociality Merleau-Ponty Stephen Priest, 2002-11-01 Maurice Merleau-Ponty is known and celebrated as a renowned phenomenologist and is considered a key figure in the existentialist movement In this wide ranging and penetrative study Stephen Priest engages Merleau-Ponty across the full range of his philosophical thought He considers Merleau Ponty s writings on the problems of the body perception space time subjectivity freedom language other minds physical objects art and being Priest addresses Merleau Ponty s thought in connection with Hegel Husserl Heidegger and Sartre He uses clear and direct language to explain the thoughts of and the ensuing importance of one of the greatest contemporary thinkers Philosophy students and scholars alike will find great pleasure in this fascinating exploration of the writings and ideas of Maurice Merleau Ponty

Words Ernst van den Hemel,Asja Szafraniec,2016-06-15 A wide ranging anthology of essays that examine the uses purposes and influence of religious language It is said that words are like people One can encounter them daily yet never come to know their true selves This volume examines what words are how they exist in religious phenomena Going beyond the common idea that language merely describes states of mind beliefs and intentions the book looks at words in their performative and material specificity The contributions in this volume examine and employ a number of linguistic and semiotic ideologies They develop the insight that our implicit assumptions about language guide the way we understand and experience religious phenomena They also explore the possibility that insights about the particular status of religious utterances may in turn influence the way we think about words in our language      The Human Image in Helmuth Plessner, Pierre Bourdieu, and Psychocentric Culture Isaac E. Catt, 2023-02-06 In The Human Image in Helmuth Plessner Pierre Bourdieu and Psychocentric Culture Isaac E Catt offers a unique criticism of naturalistic reductions of humans to animals to neuro substrates and to DNA Catt explores a new interpretation of Plessner and Bourdieu revealing the combinatory logic of semiotic phenomenology in both and their common problematic of communication Through an emergent synthesis of philosophical anthropology and communicology this book provides a basis for criticism of the failed mechanistic medical model in psychiatry a fresh argument for reconceptualizing psychiatry as a human science and for construction of a new ecological image of communicative being Throughout the book alternative attempts to transcend dualisms such as cybernetics anti anthropocentrism and biosemiotics are revealed to risk reification of the very objects of their analysis Scholars of communication semiotics philosophy psychiatry cultural studies mental distress and psychology will find this book of particular interest      Time and the Philosophy of Action Roman Altshuler, Michael J. Sigris, 2016-06-10 Although scholarship in philosophy of action has grown in recent years there has been little work explicitly dealing with the role of time in agency a role with great significance for the study of action As the articles in this collection demonstrate virtually every fundamental issue in the philosophy of action involves considerations of time The four sections of this volume address the metaphysics of action diachronic practical rationality the relation between deliberation and action and the phenomenology of agency providing an overview of the central developments in each area with an emphasis on the role of temporality Including contributions by established rising and new voices in the field Time and the Philosophy of Action brings analytic work in philosophy of action together with contributions from continental philosophy and cognitive science to elaborate the central thesis that agency not only develops in time but is shaped by it at every level
