continued for years growing into an activist movement that established the first Women's Studies major at Berkeley helped produce the first major anthologies of women's poetry and fought for equality and recognition in every corner of the education system. They risked their academic futures in the process but the efforts of those women and others helped change the face and shape of higher learning forever. These 16 essays were written by members of Marsha's Salon and its successors the Comparative Literature Women's Caucus a group of female graduate students at UC Berkeley organized in 1969 by Marsha Hudson. The group met for years and helped lead the charge to bring sexual equality to all facets of education. These annotated essays recount the atmosphere of the time that made change necessary the upheaval brought about by the feminist revolution in education the direction that the movement took and the current state of feminist learning in academia. An appendix features period letters and documents from group members regarding the need for changes at Berkeley as well as statistical information about women's studies and related subjects.

Seeing through Race Martin A. Berger, 2011-05-02. Seeing through Race is a boldly original reinterpretation of the iconic photographs of the black civil rights struggle. Martin A. Berger's provocative and groundbreaking study shows how the very pictures credited with arousing white sympathy and thereby paving the way for civil rights legislation actually limited the scope of racial reform in the 1960s. Berger analyzes many of these famous images dogs and fire hoses turned against peaceful black marchers in Birmingham tear gas and clubs wielded against voting rights marchers in Selma and argues that because white sympathy was dependent on photographs of powerless blacks these unforgettable pictures undermined efforts to enact or even imagine reforms that threatened to upend the racial balance of power.
