Sugar Country The Sugar Industry In The United States 1753 195:

Agricultural Economics Bulletin ,1961 The World of Sugar Ulbe Bosma,2023-05-09 Traversing 2 500 years of global history Ulbe Bosma shows how sugar once a luxury reserved for Eastern emperors stoked a mania in the West transforming diets and ecosystems destroying and creating cultures and shaping the history of bondage and freedom A major source of calories only since 1900 sugar has suddenly revolutionized our world Blue Book British Guiana,1920 The Place with No Edge Adam Mandelman,2020-04-08 In The Place with No Edge Adam Mandelman follows three centuries of human efforts to inhabit and control the lower Mississippi River delta the vast watery flatlands spreading across much of southern Louisiana He finds that people s use of technology to tame unruly nature in the region has produced interdependence with rather than independence from the environment Created over millennia by deposits of silt and sand the Mississippi River delta is one of the most dynamic landscapes in North America From the eighteenth century establishment of the first French fort below New Orleans to the creation of Louisiana s Coastal Master Plan in the 2000s people have attempted to harness and master this landscape through technology Mandelman examines six specific interventions employed in the delta over time levees rice flumes pullboats geophysical surveys dredgers and petroleum cracking He demonstrates that even as people seemed to gain control over the environment they grew more deeply intertwined with and vulnerable to it The greatest folly Mandelman argues is to believe that technology affords mastery Environmental catastrophes of coastal land loss and petrochemical pollution may appear to be disconnected but both emerged from the same fantasy of harnessing nature to technology Similarly the levee system s failures and the subsequent deluge after Hurricane Katrina owe as much to centuries of human entanglement with the delta as to global warming s rising seas and strengthening storms The Place with No Edge advocates for a deeper understanding of humans relationship with nature It provides compelling evidence that altering the environment whether to make it habitable profitable or navigable inevitably brings a response sometimes with unanticipated consequences Mandelman encourages a mindfulness of the ways that our inventions engage with nature and a willingness to intervene in responsible respectful ways World Sugar and Molasses Situation and Outlook ,1988 The World's Sugar Production and Consumption United States. Department of the Treasury. Bureau of Statistics,1902 Michigan Manufacturer & Financial Record ,1916 Cotton Fields No More Gilbert C. Fite,2021-10-21 No general history of southern farming since the end of slavery has been published until now For the first time Gilbert C Fite has drawn together the many threads that make up commercial agricultural development in the eleven states of the old Confederacy to explain why agricultural change was so slow in the South and then to show how the agents of change worked after 1933 to destroy the old and produce a new agriculture Fite traces the decline and departure of King Cotton as the hard taskmaster of the region and the replacement of cotton by a somewhat more democratically rewarding group of farm products poultry cattle swine soybeans citrus and other fruits vegetables rice dairy products and forest products He shows how such crop changes were related to other developments such as the rise of a capital base in the South mainly after World War II technological innovation in farming equipment and urbanization and regional population shifts Based largely upon primary sources Cotton Fields No More will become the standard work on post Civil War agriculture in the South It will be welcomed by students of the American South and of United States agriculture economic and social history Coolies and Cane Moon-Ho Jung, 2006-04-01 2007 Winner of the Merle Curti Intellectual History Award of the Organization of American Historians 2006 Winner of the History Social Science Book Award of the Association of Asian American Studies How did thousands of Chinese migrants end up working alongside African Americans in Louisiana after the Civil War With the stories of these workers Coolies and Cane advances an interpretation of emancipation that moves beyond U S borders and the black white racial dynamic Tracing American ideas of Asian labor to the sugar plantations of the Caribbean Moon Ho Jung argues that the racial formation of coolies in American culture and law played a pivotal role in reconstructing concepts of race nation and citizenship in the United States Jung examines how coolies appeared in major U S political debates on race labor and immigration between the 1830s and 1880s He finds that racial notions of coolies were articulated in many often contradictory ways They could mark the progress of freedom they could also symbolize the barbarism of slavery Welcomed and rejected as neither black nor white coolies emerged recurrently as both the salvation of the fracturing and reuniting nation and the scourge of American civilization Based on extensive archival research this study makes sense of these contradictions to reveal how American impulses to recruit and exclude coolies enabled and justified a series of historical transitions from slave trade laws to racially coded immigration laws from a slaveholding nation to a nation of immigrants and from a continental empire of manifest destiny to a liberating empire across the seas Combining political cultural and social history Coolies and Cane is a compelling study of race Reconstruction and Asian American history Food and Agriculture during the Civil War R. Douglas Hurt, 2016-01-11 This book provides a perspective into the past that few students and historians of the Civil War have considered agriculture during the Civil War as a key element of power The Civil War revolutionized the agricultural labor system in the South and it had dramatic effects on farm labor in the North relating to technology Agriculture also was an element of power for both sides during the Civil War one that is often overlooked in traditional studies of the conflict R Douglas Hurt argues that Southerners viewed the agricultural productivity of their region as an element of power that would enable them to win the war while Northern farmers considered their productivity not only an economic benefit to the Union and enhancement of their personal fortunes but also an advantage that would help bring the South back into the Union This study examines the effects of the Civil War on agriculture for both the Union and the Confederacy from 1860 to 1865 emphasizing how agriculture directly related to the war effort in each region for example the efforts made to produce more food for military and civilian populations attempts to limit cotton production cotton as a diplomatic tool the work of women in the fields slavery as a key agricultural resource livestock production experiments to produce cotton tobacco and sugar in the North and the adoption of new implements
