Confidentiality and Its Discontents Paul W. Mosher, Jeffrey Berman, 2015-07-01 Freud promised his patients absolute confidentiality regardless of what they revealed but privacy in psychotherapy began to erode a half century ago Psychotherapists now seem to serve as double agents with a dual and often conflicting allegiance to patient and society Some therapists even go so far as to issue Miranda type warnings advising patients that what they say in therapy may be used against them Confidentiality and Its Discontents explores the human stories arising from this loss of confidentiality in psychotherapy Addressing different types of psychotherapy breaches Mosher and Berman begin with the the story of novelist Philip Roth who was horrified when he learned that his psychoanalyst had written a thinly veiled case study about him Other breaches of privacy occur when the so called duty to protect compels a therapist to break confidentiality by contacting the police Every psychotherapist has heard about Tarasoff but few know the details of this story of fatal attraction Nor are most readers familiar with the Jaffee case which established psychotherapist patient privilege in the federal courts Similarly the story of Robert Bierenbaum a New York surgeon who was brought to justice fifteen years after he brutally murdered his wife reveals how privileged communication became established in a state court Meanwhile the story of New York Chief Judge Sol

Wachtler convicted of harassing a former lover and her daughter shows how the fear of the loss of confidentiality may prevent a person from seeking treatment with potentially disastrous results While affirming the importance of the psychotherapist patient privilege Confidentiality and Its Discontents focuses on both the inner and outer stories of the characters involved in noteworthy psychotherapy breaches and the ways in which psychiatry and the law can complement but sometimes clash with each other

Outlaw Fathers in Victorian and Modern British Literature Helena Gurfinkel, 2014-03-27 Outlaw Fathers in Victorian and Modern British Literature Queering Patriarchy traces the representations of outlaw fathers or queer patriarchs and their relationships with their queer sons in a particular literary tradition mid to late Victorian and twentieth century British fiction and memoir Specifically I look at such representations in Anthony Trollope's Doctor Thorne 1858 and The Prime Minister 1875-76 while also drawing on An Autobiography 1883 and The Duke's Children 1880 Samuel Butler's The Way of All Flesh published in 1901 Henry James's The Lesson of the Master 1888 J R Ackerley's My Father and Myself written in the 1930s and published in 1968 E M Forster's Little Imber 1961 with an occasional detour into The Longest Journey 1907 Howards End 1909 and Maurice published in 1971 and Alan Hollinghurst's The Spell 1998 In the coda I consider the implications of including transgender transnational female to male fathers of color in the ranks of queer patriarchy and discuss two contemporary novels Jackie Kay's Trumpet 1998 Scotland and Patricia Powell's The Pagoda 1998 Jamaica and the United States as well as briefly an episode an episode of the television show The L Word 2008 and the documentary U People 2007 The term queer patriarchy has two components The first one is a non traditional primarily but not exclusively non heterosexual pervasively present and culturally important paternal subjectivity The second one is the bond between such queer paternal figures and their sons biological and non biological This study pays attention primarily to the relationship between psyche language and ideology but it will join a larger conversation about the changing roles of men in general and fathers in particular which is taking place outside of the field of literary studies

The Reading Groups Book Jenny Hartley, Sarah Turvey, 2001 The Logic of Fetishism James J. Pancrazio, 2004 Cuban author Alejo Carpentier 1904-1980 was a key figure in the foundation of contemporary Latin American fiction By taking a critical position vis a vis the restitutionary current in Latin American studies James Pancrazio provides a highly innovative re-reading of Carpentier's work

Native American Literature Helen May Dennis, 2006-11-22 Considering Native American literature within a modernist framework and comparing it with writers such as Woolf Stein T S Eliot and Proust results in a valuable and enriching context for the selected texts

Deliberative Democracy Now Edwina Barvosa, 2018-06-07 Uses public opinion on LGBT equality to show an evolutionary shift toward deliberative democracy in which everyone has a voice

The Lieutenant Nun Sherry Velasco, 2009-12-03 Catalina de Erauso 1592-1650 was a Basque noblewoman who just before taking final vows to become a nun escaped from the convent at San Sebasti n dressed as a man and in her own words went hither and thither embarked went into port took to roving slew wounded embezzled and roamed about Her long service fighting for the Spanish empire in Peru and Chile won her a soldier's pension and a papal dispensation to continue dressing in men's clothing This theoretically informed study analyzes the many ways in which the Lieutenant Nun has been constructed interpreted marketed and consumed by both the dominant and divergent cultures in Europe Latin America and the United States from the seventeenth century to the present Sherry Velasco argues that the ways in which literary theatrical iconographic and cinematic productions have transformed Erauso's life experience into a public spectacle show how transgender narratives expose and manipulate spectators fears and desires Her book thus reveals what happens when the private experience of a transgenderist is shifted to the public sphere and thereby marketed as a hybrid spectacle for the curious gaze of the general audience
