Postcolonial Postmortems, 2006-01-01 Recent crime fiction increasingly transcends national boundaries with investigators operating across countries and continents Frequently the detective is a migrant or comes from a transcultural background To solve the crime the investigator is called upon to decipher the meanings hidden in clues and testimonies that require transcultural forms of understanding For the reader the investigation discloses new interpretive methods and processes of social investigation often challenging facile interpretations of the postcolonial world order Under the rubric postcolonial postmortems this collection of essays seeks to explore the tropes issues and themes that characterise this emergent form of crime fiction But what does the postcolonial bring to the genre apart from the well known and valid discourses of resistance subversion and ethnicity And why postmortems A dissection and medical examination of a body to determine the cause of death the postmortem of the postcolonial not only alludes to the investigation of the victim's remains but also to the body of the individual text and its contexts This collection interrogates literary concepts of postcoloniality and crime from transcultural perspectives in the attempt to offer new critical impulses to the study of crime fiction and postcolonial literatures International scholars offer insights into the postcolonial postmortems of a wide range of texts by authors from Africa South Asia the Asian and African Diaspora and Australia including Robert G Barrett Unity Dow Wessel Ebersohn Romesh Gunasekera Kazuo Ishiguro Sujata Massey Alexander McCall Smith and Michael Ondaatje

Fiction, Crime, and the Feminine Rédouane Abouddahab, 2011-01-18 The form of art called fiction has always been the privileged framework providing the perfect alibi for facing framing and containing the Other s desire and the strange libido attached to violence in other words there is an ambivalent dimension inherent in the scenarios and fantasies we enjoy by proxy Are not the fairy tales of our childhood full of images of death and violence whose fascinating presence is paradoxically meant to make us feel all the more safely tucked up in bed After all the wolf or the Little Red Riding Hood the monstrous killer or the unfortunate victim are but fictitious characters mere shifting positions they are not me therefore thanks to the willing suspension of disbelief process any reading I may shift into their speech or thoughts on the fictional screen a stage both for projection of and protection from such forbidden enjoyments Crime fiction has also for a long time been the genre for such containment Ever since Victorian craniology criminal violence has remained as resistant as ever to scientific measurement even to the more recent techniques of investigation of the brain Where women are concerned they were first and mostly fascinating victims but they also nowadays feature in the role of the criminals adding to the first fascination the mystery of a woman s desire beyond the pale of societal expectations Indeed more and more pieces of crime fiction nowadays refuse to grant the simple pleasures of old what if for example the text refuses to comply to the whodunnit convention What about those stories that instead of closure will diffuse a mist a sense of unrest by their emphasis on the inexplicable lure of violence In other words gone are the days of the satisfaction granted by traditional closure and return to a solidly structured society made safe again by the disposal of the scene of violence But writing as such is also to be taken into consideration and what forcefully determines the writing is not only the historical trauma whose active presence in the fiction cannot be denied but especially some unresolved traumatic event or exclusion that makes one write and through the writing quest bliss but that also makes one renounce the attachment to the inevitably lost bliss
