Stewart, Y. Atkinson, 2009-11-23 Esteemed contributors expand the range of possibilities for reading understanding and teaching children's literature as ethnic literature rather than children's literature in this ambitious collection Critical Content Analysis of Children's and Young Adult Literature Holly Johnson, Janelle Mathis, Kathy G. Short, 2016-06-17 In this book the authors describe their strategies for critically reading global and multicultural literature and the range of procedures they use for critical analyses They also reflect on how these research strategies can inform classrooms and children as readers Critical content analysis offers researchers a methodology for examining representations of power and position in global and multicultural children's and adolescent literature This methodology highlights the critical as locating power in social practices by understanding uncovering and transforming conditions of inequity Importantly it also provides insights into specific global and multicultural books significant within classrooms as well as strategies that teachers can use to engage students in critical literacy Closing the Gap Karen Keaton Jackson, Sandra Vavra, 2007-09-01 Without contraries there is no progression William Blake This is a book about reality and hope Its chapters reframe the concept of gap acknowledging distances for example acknowledging old insights and theory while also honoring teacher discovery However it refuses to bow under the weight of these challenges Its contributors focus instead on how to overcome acknowledged inadequacies in learning how to teach writing as well as how to practice principled literacy instruction These contributors see gaps not as unbridgeable chasms but rather as opportunities to educate their students to use writing to understand the broader context of their education and pre service candidates to adapt curriculum creatively Contributors include new and seasoned secondary school teachers graduate students and university faculty who together remind us of old insights needing to be passed along Villanueva and show us new practices that challenge the conventions of the status quo and promote social justice To close the gaps in short they demonstrate how rhetoric and truth are intertwined In a time when too many children continue to be left behind this book should be required reading for all literacy teachers because it is in our continued willingness to learn from each other that hope resides

McCluskey,2022-09-15 American public schooling was established to unify diverse people and prepare citizens for democracy Intuitively it would teach diverse people the same values preferably in the same buildings with the goal that they will learn to get along and uphold government by the people But intuition can be wrong significant evidence suggests that public schools have not brought diverse people together whether from legally mandated racial segregation espousing values many people could not accept or human beings simply tending to associate with others like themselves Indeed the basic reality that people have diverse values and desires has rendered public schooling not a unifying force but a battleground That public schooling is necessary for democracy is also not supported both because we do not have a commonly agreed upon definition of democracy and because public schooling violates the bedrock American value liberty that democracy is supposed to protect The Fractured Schoolhouse Reexamining Education for a Free Equal and Harmonious Society proposes that to fulfill the mission of public schooling we need what some might call its opposite school choice Education grounded in liberty would enable diverse people to pursue curricula and policies they think are right without having to impose them on others and by making separated groups equals and easing the creation of new identities it would

Teaching with Tension Philathia Bolton, Cassander L. Smith, Lee Bebout, 2019-01-15 Teaching with Tension is a collection of seventeen original essays that address the extent to which attitudes about race impacted by the current political moment in the United States have produced pedagogical challenges for professors in the humanities As a flashpoint this current political moment is defined by the visibility of the country's first black president the election of his successor whose presidency has been associated with an increased visibility of the alt right and the emergence of the neoliberal university Together these social currents shape the tensions with which we teach Drawing together personal reflection pedagogical strategies and critical theory Teaching with Tension offers concrete examinations that will foster student learning The essays are organized into three thematic sections Teaching in Times and Places of Struggle examines the dynamics of teaching race during the current moment marked by neoconservative politics and twenty first century freedom struggles Teaching in the Neoliberal University focuses on how pressures and exigencies of neoliberalism such as individualism customer service models of education and online courses impact the way in which race is taught and conceptualized in college classes The final section Teaching How to Read Race and Counter Narratives homes in on direct strategies used to historicize race in classrooms comprised of millennials who grapple with race neutral ideologies Taken together these sections and their constitutive essays offer rich and fruitful insight into the complex dynamics of contemporary race and ethnic studies education Private Practices Meredith Rogers Cherland, 1994 A constructed world Gender practices Literacy practices Instructional practices Identity practices Private lessons Private Practices Meredith Cherland University of Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada., 2013-10-23 First Published in 1994 The study of literacy no longer focuses solely on psychological processes In the past ten years literacy has been reconceptualized as a social practice or rather as social practices that make up the fabric of daily life Using an anthropological perspective Private Practices examines the broad fictional reading of middle class pre teen girls and offers fresh insights into the place of literacy both at home and at school in the construction of gender The author provides a wealth of evidence to support the central assumption of the book Gender is a cultural and social construction not a biological given Gender is something that people create while interacting with each other in all the practices of their daily lives including their literacy practices The book also provides critical analysis and commentary concerning the role that reading fiction plays in cultural reproduction In the hope that deeper knowledge of literacy as a social practice will support social transformation and eventually social justice the author suggests compelling reasons for the fact that girls read more fiction and different fiction than do boys Begin Here Rocio G. Davis,2007-01-31 An analytically innovative work Begin Here widens the current critical focus of Asian North American literary studies by proposing an integrated thematic and narratological approach to the practice of autobiography It demonstrates how Asian North American memoirs of childhood challenge the construction and performative potential of national experiences This understanding influences theoretical approaches to ethnic life writing expanding the boundaries of traditional autobiography by negotiating narrative techniques and genre and raising complex questions about self representation and the construction of cultural memory By examining the artistic project of some fifty Asian North American writers who deploy their childhood narratives in the representation of the individual processes of self identification and negotiation of cultural and national affiliation this work provides a comprehensive overview of Asian North American autobiographies of childhood published over the last century Importantly it also attends to new ways of writing autobiographies employing comics blending verse prose diaries and life writing for children and using relational approaches to self identification among others Murder Mysteries: 350+ Detective Novels & True Crime Stories Arthur Conan Doyle,Ernest Bramah,Arthur Morrison,Agatha Christie,Wilkie Collins,Thomas W.
