The Disfigured Face in American Literature, Film, and Television Cornelia Klecker, Gudrun M. Grabher, 2021-11-29 The face being prominent and visible is the foremost marker of a person's identity as well as their major tool of communication. Facial disfigurements congenital or acquired not only erase these significant capacities but since ancient times they have been conjured up as outrageous and terrifying often connoting evil or criminality in their associations a dark secret being suggested behind the mask the disfigurement indicating punishment for sin. Complemented by an original poem by Kenneth Sherman and a plastic surgeon's perspective on facial disfigurement this book investigates the exploitation of these and further stereotypical tropes by literary authors filmmakers and showrunners considering also the ways in which film television and the publishing industry have more recently tried to overcome negative codifications of facial disfigurement in the search for an authentic self behind the veil of facial disfigurement. An exploration of fictional representations of the disfigured face this book will appeal to scholars of sociology cultural and media studies American studies and literary studies with interests in representations of disfigurement and the Other.

Psycho-oncology Jimmie C. Holland, 2015 Originally published by Oxford in 1998 Psycho Oncology was the first comprehensive text in the field and remains the gold standard today. Edited by a team of leading experts in psycho oncology spearheaded by Dr Jimmie C Holland the founder of the field the text reflects the interdisciplinary nature and global reach of this growing field. Thoroughly updated and developed in collaboration with the American Psychosocial Society and the International Psycho oncology Society the third edition is a current comprehensive reference for psychiatrists psychologists oncologists hospice workers and social workers seeking to understand and manage the psychological issues involved in the care of persons with cancer and the psychological social and behavioral factors that contribute to cancer risk and survival. New to this edition are chapters on gender based and geriatric issues and expanded coverage of underserved populations community based programs and caregiver training and education.

Oxford Handbook of the Psychology of Appearance Nichola Rumsey, Diana Harcourt, 2012-05-31 We live in a society in which messages associating physical attractiveness with success and happiness are pervasive. There is an epidemic of appearance concerns amongst teenagers and adults in westernised countries and body image dissatisfaction is now considered normative. Large numbers of people experience negative impacts on wellbeing and for many adolescents adults and even children appearance concerns are influential in choices about a range of health behaviours. The challenges facing them include difficulties with social encounters and the problem of having to cope with negative self perceptions. The Oxford Handbook of the Psychology of Appearance is a comprehensive reference text written by experts in the field. It examines how people feel about the way they look and why it is that some people are happy with their appearance whilst increasing numbers are troubled by the way they look reporting that these appearance related concerns affect many aspects of their lives including relationships health and well being. It considers the influence of other people and how the media affects thoughts and behaviours related to appearance. It explores the experiences of people living with a disfigurement in a society that seems to be increasingly focussed on appearance and the pursuit of an idealised image of beauty size and weight Exploring a topic that has been often neglected in the psychological literature this book will be invaluable for health clinical and social psychologists health professionals working with patients with visible differences and those in the field of public health and education
