The Language of Contemporary Criticism Clarified William Innes Homer, 1999 Homer's language is nontechnical and liberated from jargon. He has broken through the barriers of obscurity. Complex ideas are finally easy to understand. A radical argument emerges from the book's diverse concerns. Cinema and television the new and democratic art forms of the twentieth century demand a fundamental rethinking of our concepts of language and culture. What is at stake is the very idea of a liberal and humane education.

Edward Said and the Authority of Literary Criticism Nicolas Vandeviver, 2019-09-26 This book examines the earliest writings of Edward Said and the foundations of what came to be known as postcolonial criticism in order to reveal how the groundbreaking author of Orientalism turned literary criticism into a form of political intervention. Tracing Said's shifting conceptions of literature and agency in relation to the history of American literary studies in the thirty years or so between the end of World War II and the last quarter of the twentieth century this book offers a rich and novel understanding of the critical practice of this indispensable figure and the institutional context from which it emerged. By combining broad scale literary history with granular attention to the vocabulary of criticism Nicolas Vandeviver brings to light the harmonizing of methodological conflicts that informs Said's approach to literature and argues that Said's enduring political significance is grounded in his practice as a literary critic.

The Making of the Humanities Rens Bod, Jaap Maat, Thijs Weststeijn, 2025-10-01. This book is the first step towards the development of a comparative history of the humanities. Specialists in philology, musicology, art history, linguistics, literary theory and other disciplines highlight the intertwining of the various fields and their impact on the sciences. This first volume in the series The Making of the Humanities focuses on the early modern period. Different perspectives reveal how the humanities developed from the liberal arts via the curriculum of humanistic schools to modern disciplines. The authors show in particular how discoveries in the humanities contributed to a secular world view pointing up connections with the scientific revolution. The main themes are the humanities versus the sciences, the visual arts as liberal arts, humanism and heresy, language and poetics, linguists and logicians, philology and philosophy, the history of history. Contributions come from a selection of internationally renowned European and American scholars including Floris Cohen, David Cram and Ingrid Rowland. The book offers a wealth of insights for specialists, students and those interested in the humanities in a broad sense.
