Anderson, Leonard Downie Jr, Michael Schudson, 2016-08-11 The business of journalism has an extensive storied and often romanticized history Newspaper reporting has long shaped the way that we see the world played key roles in exposing scandals and has even been alleged to influence international policy The past several years have seen the newspaper industry in a state of crisis with Twitter and Facebook ushering in the rise of citizen journalism and a deprofessionalization of the industry plummeting readership and revenue and municipal and regional papers shuttering or being absorbed into corporate behemoths Now billionaires most with no journalism experience but lots of power and strong views are stepping in to purchase newspapers both large and small This addition to the What Everyone Needs to Know series looks at the past present and future of journalism considering how the development of the industry has shaped the present and how we can expect the future to roll out It addresses a wide range of questions from whether objectivity was only a conceit of late twentieth century reporting largely behind us now how digital technology has disrupted journalism whether newspapers are already dead to the role of non profit journalism the meaning of transparency in reporting the way that private interests and governments have created their own advocacy journalism whether social media is changing journalism the new social rules of old media outlets how franchised media is addressing the problem of disappearing local papers and the rise of citizen journalism and hacker journalism It will even look at the ways in which new technologies potentially threaten to replace journalists

The News Media In National And International Conflict

Andrew Arno,Wimal Dissanayake,2019-07-11 Ironically as telecommunications technology the embodiment of modernity advances bringing people in different nations into more direct contact during conflict situations traditional cultural factors become increasingly important as differing ways of thinking and acting collide The mass media can be seen as a factor in the creation of international conflict they also claim many scholars are the key to control and resolution of those problems Whichever side of the coin one chooses to look at mass communication as cause or cure of conflict there is no doubt that the news media are no longer peripheral players on the global scene they are important participants whose organizational patterns of behavior values and motivations must be taken into account in understanding national and international conflict In this volume a distinguished group of authors explores the variety of ways the news media newspapers radio and television are involved in conflict situations Conflicts between the United States and Iran India and Pakistan and the United States and China are examined and national level studies in Sri Lanka Iran Hong Kong and the United States provide varied contexts in which the authors look at the complex interrelationships among government news media and the public in conflict situations
