Social Work and Social Exclusion Michael Sheppard, 2021-08-29 Social exclusion is a subject of major importance in contemporary social work and has been a core feature of social policy developments in the UK and Europe in the past decade Michael Sheppard argues that the issue of social exclusion lies at the very heart of social work and he examines the implications of this position for both theory and practice He goes on to examine a range of key topics in social work including Social work values and knowledge Empowerment Need The exercise of authority Authority and Choice Evidence based practice Reflection and reflective learning Judgement and decision making Social work and art Social work as science He discusses how each of these topics reflect an underlying concern with social exclusion making it clear that even though the term social exclusion is of recent origin it provides a framework for understanding the enduring themes of social work The book offers an original contribution to the understanding and practice of social work and includes a reappraisal of some fundamental aspects of the profession and its practice In its focus on issues of wide concern it will be essential reading for practitioners and students in social work It will also be of interest within social policy generally offering an example of the way in which social exclusion becomes an issue of professional concern in welfare and the form this takes in practice care offenders people with disabilities or mental health problems and those at risk of domestic violence for example who require intervention on their behalf to meet their housing needs Social Care and Housing argues that professionals need to be aware of the role of wider social problems in particular poor housing in reinforcing the deprivation of the lowest income groups that form the bulk of service users The contributors suggest that raising the profile of housing and welfare research within the social services and encouraging practitioners and educators to introduce a broader social context into practice would improve understanding of the relationship between housing and social care They also examine strategies for formulating coherent responses to client problems and explore the development of practice at the boundaries of social care and housing
