 Matthew Noellert,2020-10-13 Following the end of World War II in 1945 the Chinese Communist Party CCP spent the next three decades carrying out agrarian reform among nearly one third of the world's peasants This book presents a new perspective on the first step of this reform when the CCP helped redistribute over 40 million hectares of land to over three hundred million impoverished peasants in the nationwide land reform movement This land reform the founding myth of the People's Republic of China 1949 present and one of the largest redistributions of wealth and power in history embodies the idea that an equal distribution of property will lead to social and political equality Power Over Property argues that in practice however the opposite occurred the redistribution of political power led to a more equal distribution of property China's land reform was accomplished not only through the state's power to define the distribution of resources but also through village communities prioritizing political entitlements above property rights Through the systematic analysis of never before studied micro level data on practices of land reform in over five hundred villages Power Over Property demonstrates how land reform primarily involved the removal of former power holders the mobilization of mass political participation and the creation of a new social political hierarchy Only after accomplishing all of this was it possible to redistribute land This redistribution moreover was determined by political relations to a new structure of power not just economic relations to the means of production The experience of China's land reform complicates our understanding of the relations between economic social and political equality On the one hand social equality in China was achieved through political not economic means On the other hand the fundamental solution was a more effective hierarchy of fair entitlements not equal rights This book ultimately suggests that focusing on economic equality alone may obscure more important social and political dynamics in the development of the modern world Mao's Cultural Army Brian James DeMare,2015-04-02 Charting their training travels and performances this innovative study explores the role of the artists that roamed the Chinese countryside in support of Mao's communist revolution DeMare traces the development of Mao's cultural army from its genesis in Red Army propaganda teams to its full development as a largely civilian force composed of amateur and professional drama troupes in the early years of the People's Republic of China PRC Drawing from memoirs artistic handbooks and rare archival sources Mao's Cultural Army uncovers the arduous and complex process of creating revolutionary dramas that would appeal to China's all important rural audiences The Communists strived for a disciplined cultural army to promote party policies but audiences often shunned modern and didactic shows and instead clamoured for traditional works DeMare illustrates how drama troupes caught between the party and their audiences did their best to resist the ever growing reach of the PRC state

Mass Mobilization in the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, 1945-1960 Alec Holcombe, 2020-08-31 Immediately after its founding by H Ch Minh in September 1945 the Democratic Republic of Vietnam DRV faced challenges from rival Vietnamese political organizations and from a France determined to rebuild her empire after the humiliations of WWII H with strategic genius courageous maneuver and good fortune was able to delay full scale war with France for sixteen months in the northern half of the country This was enough time for his Communist Party under the cover of its Vietminh front organization to neutralize domestic rivals and install the rough framework of an independent state That fledgling state became a weapon of war when the DRV and France finally came to blows in Hanoi during December of 1946 marking the official beginning of the First Indochina War With few economic resources at their disposal H and his comrades needed to mobilize an enormous and free contribution in manpower and rice from DRV controlled regions Extracting that contribution during the war's early days was primarily a matter of patriotic exhortation By the early 1950s however the infusion of weapons from the United States the Soviet Union and China had turned the Indochina conflict into a total war Hunger exhaustion and violence along with the conflict's growing political complexity challenged the DRV leaders mobilization efforts forcing patriotic appeals to be supplemented with coercion and terror This trend reached its revolutionary climax in late 1952 when H under strong pressure from Stalin and Mao agreed to carry out radical land reform in DRV controlled areas of northern Vietnam The regime's 1954 victory over the French at Dien Bien Phu the return of peace and the division of the country into North and South did not slow this process of socialist transformation Over the next six years 1954-1960 the DRV's Communist leaders raced through land reform and agricultural collectivization with a relentless sense of urgency
