The Photograph and the American Dream, 1840-1940 Stephen White, Andreas Blühm, 2001 Perhaps no nation has been so thoroughly shaped by its dreams as has America and perhaps no other dreams have been captured on camera as often and as diversely as America s The mythic American Dream has been the subject of photographic documentation since the 1840s when photographers first began traveling to the New World in search of subjects From an unknown photographer s picture of newborn George B Billings Rego scion of an immigrant Portuguese family and the first child ever born at Boston Long Wharf to Lewis Hine s wrenching image of a young cotton mill worker in Georgia to Alfred Stieglitz s awesome New York cityscapes the photographs collected here reveal the multiple facets of 100 of the most decisive years of American development Between 1840 and 1940 immigrants became homeowners untouched lands exploded in superhuman industrial growth tourists replaced pioneers and the American metropolis grew taller and shinier and the camera caught it all

A New American Dream COLLEO, 2015-01-02 A New American Dream Photographs by Coll eo Essay by Alexandra Fine Interview by The Famous Curator Coll eo s A New American Dream offers a startling and fresh perspective on American street photography

Although at first glance the work looks disturbingly familiar and well within the traditional bounds of an admittedly stale genre their modus operandi is anything but predictable All of the images are appropriated from Google Street View over a period of two years Coll eo used Google s intrusive tool of mass surveillance to virtually and above all safely drive the unseen and overlooked streets of San Francisco bleak places that are forgotten economically devastated and completely ignored by the digerati With an informed shameless sense of entitlement Coll eo selected and decoded these previously photographed scenes of urban decay documenting the sheer inequality of the so called technology capital of the world pointing the finger and rolling the mouse Coll eo grabbed the machine made images as they appear on the computer screen framing and liberating them from their technological cages and making a buck or two in the process After all this is the New American Dream
