Maxwell Maltz

That Winning Feeling:

That Winning Feeling! Jane Savoie, 1992 That Winning Feeling! Jane Savoie, 1997-08-01 Jane Savoie presents a revolutionary approach to riding by which you can train your mind and shape your attitudes to achieve higher levels of skill than every imaged. The book deals with such concepts as luck, worry, dreams, loser's limp, commitment, criticism, frustration, inspiration. You will learn relaxation exercises that will not only rid you of stress and tension but will also enable you to benefit fully from the use of imaging as a working tool to achieve desired ends. And you will skillfully invoke the As If principle to think and behave as if you are already experiencing your wants and needs. The author explains how words and word images play a major role in determining your actions. For example, if you say challenge instead of problem, you will positively enhance your performance. The training chapters take all the general principles and apply them to specific riding situations. The final chapters deal with competition, focusing all the tools and techniques learned earlier on actual performance scenarios. Throughout the informative and spirited text, there are scores of personal anecdotes about some of America's leading riders and their affinity with the ideas and teaching of the author. Get that Winning Feeling Virginia Rowan, 1986 Psycho-Cybernetics Deluxe Edition Maxwell Maltz, 2016-12-06 A magnificent deluxe edition of one of the greatest and top selling self-help books ever written, suited to a lifetime of reading, rereading, note-taking, and display. Using historical narrative and social analysis to enter the debate on sport as religion, Ellis shows that modern sport may be said to have taken on some of the functions previously vested in organized religion Through biblical and theological reflection he presents a practical theology of sport s appeal and value with special attention to the theological concept of transcendence Throughout he draws on original empirical work with sports participants and spectators The Games People Play addresses issues often considered problematic in theological discussions of sport such as gender race consumerism and the role of the modern media as well as problems associated with excessive competition and performance enhancing substances As Ellis explains Sporting journalists often use religious language in covering sports events Salvation features in many a headline and talk of moments of redemption is not uncommon Perhaps somewhere beyond the cliched hyperbole there is some theological truth in all this after all
