spiritual and cultural capital Law is the missing link in the emerging field of cathedral studies The book fills this gap It explores historical antecedents of modern cathedral law traces aspects of them that still endure and explains the law with particular reference to the recommendations of the Archbishops Commission on Cathedrals 1994 which led to the most radical changes in the legal history of these churches since the Reformation culminating in the Cathedrals Measure 1999 and associated later legislation The book compares the domestic constitutions and statutes of all the cathedrals of the Church of England today old foundations new foundations and parish church cathedrals as well as policies and guidelines applicable to or adopted by them Whilst national law acts as a fundamental unifying force there is considerable diversity as between these in terms of the breadth and depth of their coverage of topics In the socio legal tradition the book also explores through interviews with clergy and others at half of the cathedrals how laws are experienced in practice These reveal that whilst much of the law is perceived as working well there are equally key areas of concern To this end the book proposes areas for further research and debate with a view to possible reform Taking an architectural feature of cathedrals as the starting point for each chapter from cathedral governance through mission ministry music and education to cathedral property what emerges is that law and architecture have a symbiotic relationship so that a cathedral is itself a form of juristecture

The Oxford History of Anglicanism, Volume IV Jeremy Morris, 2017-02-16 The Oxford History of Anglicanism is a major new and unprecedented international study of the identity and historical influence of one of the world's largest versions of Christianity. This global study of Anglicanism from the sixteenth century looks at how Anglican identity was constructed and contested at various periods since the sixteenth century and what was its historical influence during the past six centuries. It explores not just the ecclesiastical and theological aspects of global Anglicanism but also the political, social, economic, and cultural influences of this form of Christianity that has been historically significant in western culture and a burgeoning force in non-western societies today. The chapters are written by international experts in their various historical fields which includes the most recent research in their areas as well as original research. The series forms an invaluable reference for both scholars and interested non-specialists. Volume four of The Oxford History of Anglicanism explores Anglicanism, examines the twentieth-century history of Anglicanism in North America, Britain and Ireland, and Australasia. A historiographical introduction provides insight into changing historical interpretation. The volume explores perspectives on secularization, decolonization, mission, and the theological identity of Anglicanism. It highlights the global communion's movement away from an Anglo-centric leadership and a British imperial legacy towards greater diversity and greater influence for the global south. Ten themed chapters open up complementary aspects of the history of Western Anglicanism, including theological development, social justice, women, human sexuality, ecumenical relations, mission, and decolonization, war and peace, liturgical revision, sociological analysis, and the relationship of the church, state, and nationalism. A further section on institutional development looks at the history of communion-wide institutions in the twentieth century and at changing ideas of Anglican identity. Later chapters survey the regional history of Western Anglicanism in three substantial chapters examining extensively Australia and New Zealand, North America, and the British Isles.

Cultural Heritage in Transition Bart Zwegers, 2022-02-26. This book introduces the multilevel perspective to analyze how local, national, and international actors and institutions in the heritage field interact. More specifically, a comparative study is made of controversies regarding six UNESCO World Heritage sites in Germany and the United Kingdom. The six cases involve traditional monuments: the cathedral of Aachen and the castle and cathedral of Durham; industrial heritage: the Zollverein Coal Mine in Essen and the former tin and copper mines in Cornwall; and cities: Dresden and Liverpool. Studying how long-term landscape developments interact with local actors and nationally organized regimes reveals important differences between the decentralized German and the centralized British approach to heritage preservation. These differences not only have consequences for the governance of heritage preservation in the two countries but also for their relations with international organizations such as UNESCO.
