Abstract
The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical fitness of 100 male and 100 female college students. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The sessions included cardiovascular exercise, strength training, and flexibility exercises. The results of the study showed that the program had a significant positive effect on the physical fitness of the participants. The participants showed significant improvements in cardiovascular fitness, strength, and flexibility. The program was well-received by the participants, and they reported enjoying the exercises and feeling more energetic after the program. The results of this study suggest that a 12-week training program can be an effective way to improve the physical fitness of college students.
