

SOME FAMOUS PRIVATEERS OF NEW ENGLAND

daring to risk action with the General Pickering, he disguised his ship so that it appeared to be a plodding merchantman. Upon finding him, these two alert foes set out in chase. Letting the first vessel close, Haraden stripped off the palsted canvas screens that covered his gun ports, fired a devastating broadside, and captured the ship without more ado. It hardly need be said that her consort was shortly in the possession of the ingenious Haraden. This another bit of evidence that the art of camouflage was used on the many years before the World War made it so well known.

Toward the end of the Revolution, Haraden took command of the war of Marque ship Julius Caesar, carrying 40 men and 14 guns, which he handled with such bravery and skill that her owners presented him with a massive plate. His descendants treasure a gift of velvet received from the owners of the General Pickering, shown in an illustration on another page.

On the Julius Caesar, Haraden fought successfully several engagements against two ships at a time. It is said that after one fight which lasted for over two hours, with neither side being able to gain a decisive advantage, Captain Haraden jokingly described the outcome as saying, "Both parties separated, sufficiently amused."

During his various cruises no less than a thousand enemy cannon were captured by this splendid seaman, who did far more to win the independence of his nation than many a landman whose military movements won the recognition of the government and an honored place in history.

The house in Salem where Captain Haraden died is now marked by a tablet to his memory.

THE HERALD OF SALEM, WITH STORIES OF CAPTAIN NATHANIEL SILSBEE, HER COMMANDER

In the year 1800, the Herald, bearing a Letter of Marque, had been engaged in a trading voyage to India under command of Captain Nathaniel Silsbee of Salem, afterward United States Senator from Massachusetts. On November 1, the captain left Calcutta, accompanied by four other American merchantmen who had decided to sail company for mutual safety, as it was known that several French vessels were cruising in those waters.

The adventure they ran into, which had its amusing as well as serious side, is best described in Captain Silsbee's own words: "On the morning of November 2nd, at daylight, two strange sails were discovered a few miles to windward of us, one of which was soon recognized to be the East India Company's packet ship Cornwallis, of 18 guns, which was the only one at the same time with us. At about 8 a.m. the other three stood toward the Cornwallis, soon after which the latter bore up upon us under full sail, commencing at the same time a running fight with the other ship, which then displayed French colors. We perceived that they were both plying their sweeps very briskly, and the Frenchman's grape was making great havoc on the Cornwallis.

and that the crew of the latter ship had cut away her boats and were throwing overboard their ballast and other articles for the purpose of lightening their ship. The sea was perfectly smooth and the wind very light, so much so that it was quite midday before either of the ships was within gunshot of us, by which time we (the five American ships) were in close line, our decks cleared of a large stock of poultry—chickens, with their coops, could be seen for a considerable distance around us—and every preparation made to defend ourselves to the extent of our ability. But this display of resistance on our part seemed to be quite disregarded by the pursuing ship, and she continued steering for my own ship, which was in the centre of our fleet, until she was fairly and fairly within gunshot, when my own guns were first opened upon her, which were instantly followed by those of each and all of the other four ships.

"When the matches were applied to our guns the French ship was plying her sweeps, and, with studding sails on both sides, coming directly upon us. But when the smoke of our guns, caused by repeated broadsides from each of our ships, had so passed off as to enable us to see her distinctly, she was close upon the wind and going from us. The Captain of the Cornwallis (which was then within hailing distance) expressed a desire to exchange signals with us and to keep company

James M. Caiella, 2025-08-01 The course of American naval history has not been set only by the relatively few famous ships whose stories have been told and retold This volume spotlights 50 less recognized vessels each significant in its own way from the Continental Navy to the first supercarriers while touching on many others with which their stories are interwoven Attention is given not only to the design and conceptual changes the vessels embodied but also the crews whose toil and heroism gave them life and sometimes notoriety One captain tried to sell his warship in the midst of the Civil War Each ship is detailed chronologically in chapters that often dispel timeworn misconceptions Some were trailblazers others were misdirected in their inspiration design or execution indeed two could not float and one was dampened only by rain Yet each helped shape America's seafaring history Privateering Faye Kert, 2015-09-30 The first book to tell the tale of the War of 1812 from the privateers perspective Winner of the John Lyman Book Award of the North American Society for Oceanic History During the War of 1812 most clashes on the high seas involved privately owned merchant ships not official naval vessels Licensed by their home governments and considered key weapons of maritime warfare these ships were authorized to attack and seize enemy traders Once the prizes were legally condemned by a prize court the privateers could sell off ships and cargo and pocket the proceeds Because only a handful of ship to ship engagements occurred between the Royal Navy and the United States Navy it was really the privateers who fought and won the war at sea In Privateering Faye M Kert introduces readers to U S and Atlantic Canadian privateers who sailed those skirmishing ships describing both the rare captains who made money and the more common ones who lost it Some privateers survived numerous engagements and returned to their pre war lives others perished under violent circumstances Kert demonstrates how the romantic image of pirates and privateers came to obscure the dangerous and bloody reality of private armed warfare Building on two decades of research Privateering places the story of private armed warfare within the overall context of the War of 1812 Kert highlights the economic strategic social and political impact of privateering on both sides and explains why its toll on normal shipping helped convince the British that the war had grown too costly Fascinating unfamiliar and full of surprises this book will appeal to historians and general readers alike New England Shipbuilding: Vessels That Made History Glenn A. Knoblock, 2021 For more than four hundred years New England shipyards have contributed significantly to America's maritime and naval supremacy This compelling story is presented through the histories of seventy ships built from the colonial era down to modern times Well known vessels like the Constitution the Nautilus the Flying Cloud and the infamous whaleship Essex are included but so too are lesser known ships including the ill fated Wyoming and the far ranging voyager Union Every type of vessel is covered their building or voyages making nautical news often in exciting fashion and their exploits filled with adventure danger tragedy and survival Historian and author Glenn A Knoblock explores the construction life and demise of these ships and details their contribution to our nation s maritime heritage
