from Southeast Asia from precolonial times to the present Indian Ikat Textiles Rosemary Crill, 1998 This volume deals in depth with Indian textiles in the ikat technique It is based on the Victoria and Albert Museum's collection of ikats from all over India many of which date from the mid 19th century and represent aspects of weaving and dyeing that no longer survive in their places of origin A complex form of resist dyeing in which threads are patterned before weaving ikat has been used in India since at least the early centuries AD Over 100 pieces are discussed and illustrated from the satin weave mashrums of South India and the silk patola from Gujarat to simple cotton saris from Orissa and Tamil Nadu and subtly coloured rumals from Andhra Pradesh Further sections explore the influence of Indian ikat on the textile traditions of other areas including South East Asia the Middle East and Europe Reinterpreting Indian Ocean Worlds Stefan C. A. Halikowski Smith, 2011-05-25 The Indian Ocean World was an idea borne out by researchers in economic history and trade in the 1980s in response to the compartmentalization of specific area studies within the wider rubric of Asian civilisations and culture Professor Kirti N Chaudhuri's books Trading World of Asia and the English East India Company 1978 and then Trade and Civilization in the Indian Ocean 1985 figured amongst the forefront of this new movement in historical thinking undertaking detailed historical analysis first of the English East India Company and then a comparative cultural history of Asian material life and civilisation Today historians continue to hold on to the idea of an Indian Ocean world although studies now follow a number of different threads from themes like linguistics and creolization to the seeds of national consciousness By presenting a number of studies here gathered into the themes of Intermixing The World of Trade and Colonial Paths it is hoped we can render tribute to one of the outstanding historians in this field and reflect the plenitude of current research in this subject area New Arabian Studies Volume 3 B.
