The 1002nd Night Princeton Series Of Contemporary Poets:

The 1002nd Night Debora Greger, 2014-07-14 While seeming to affirm the Western poetic and cultural tradition Greger attacks its rational heart The subjects of her poems Mozart operas Botticelli's Three Graces narcissus flowers are the vestments of aristocratic Europe but her poetic issue is stream of consciousness Originally published in 1990 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells, 1992 The Ruined Elegance Fiona Sze-Lorrain, 2015-09-29 A lyrical collection that explores the interplay between poetry and history In her new collection Fiona Sze Lorrain offers a nuanced yet dynamic vision of humanity marked by perils surprises and the transcendence of a ruined elegance Through an intercultural journey that traces lives encounters exiles and memories from France America and Asia the poet explores a rich array of historical and literary allusions to European masters Asian sources and American influences With candor and humor each lyrical foray is sensitive to silence and experience I want to honor the invisible I'll use the fog to see white peaches There are haunting narratives from a World War II concentration camp the Stalinist Terror and a persecuted Tibet during the Cultural Revolution There are also poems that take as their point of departure writings paintings sketches photographs and music by Gu Cheng Giorgio Caproni Bonnard Hiroshige Gao Xingjian Kertész and Debussy among others Grounded in the sensual these poems probe existential questionings through inspirations from nature and the impermanent earth Described by the Los Angeles Review of Books as a high lyricist who refuses to resort to mere lyricism in order to articulate her experience Sze Lorrain renews her faith in music and poetic language by addressing the opposing aesthetics of ruins and elegance and how the experience of both defies judgment The Two Yvones Jessica Greenbaum, 2012-09-30 This is the second collection from a Brooklyn poet whose work many readers will know from the New Yorker Jessica Greenbaum's narrative poems in which objects and metaphor share highest honors attempt revelation through close observation of the everyday Written in plain American that cats and dogs can read as Marianne Moore phrased it these contemporary lyrics bring forward the challenges of Wisława Szymborska the reportage of Yehuda Amichai and the formal forays of Marilyn Hacker The book asks at heart how does life present itself to us and how do we create value from our delights and losses Riding on Kenneth Koch's instruction to find one true feeling and hang on The Two Yvones overtakes the present with candor meditation and the classic aspiration to shape lyric into a lasting force Moving from 1960s Long Island to 1980s Houston to today's Brooklyn the poems range in subject from the pages of the Talmud to a squirrel trapped in a kitchen One tells the story of young lovers warmed by the rays Their pelvic bones sent over the horizon of their belts while another describes the Bronx Zoo in winter where the giraffes pad about like nurses walking quietly outside a sick room Another poem defines the speaker via a packing slip of her parts brown eyes brown hair from hirsute tribes in Poland and Russia The title poem in which the speaker and friends stumble through a series of flawed memories about each other unearths the human vulnerabilities that shape so much of the collection From The Two Yvones WHEN MY DAUGHTER GOT SICK Her cries impersonated all the world The fountain s bubbling speech was just a trick But still I turned and looked as she implored Or leaned toward muffled noises through the bricks Just radio whose waves might be her wav ering whose pitch might be her quavering I turned toward where the sirens might be Save Me Help me Mommy Mommy everything She too had said since sloughing off the world She took to bed and now her voice stays fused To air like outlines of a bygone girl The streets the lake the room just places bruised Without her form the way your sheets still hold Rough echoes of the risen sleeper cold

Stem Stella Wong,2024-10-08 A wide ranging collection from a rising poet that showcases her sharp contemporary voice In Stem Stella Wong intersperses lyric poems on a variety of subjects with dramatic monologues that imagine the perspectives of specific female composers musicians and visual artists including Johanna Beyer Mira Calix Clara Rockmore Maryanne Amacher and Delia Derbyshire In such lines as let me tell you how I make myself appear more likeable as I grow older I like looking at chaos and I want to propose a hike and also propose mostly Wong s style is confident and idiomatic and by turns contemplative and carefree Whether writing about family intimate relationships language or women s experience Wong creates a world alive with observation and provocation capturing the essence and the problems of life with others

Please make me pretty, I don't want to die Tawanda Mulalu,2022-09-13 The debut collection of an exciting new voice in poetry Please make me pretty I don t want to die explores tactility sound sensuality and intimacy Set across the four seasons of a year these fresh and original poems by Tawanda Mulalu combine an inviting confessional voice and offbeat imagery and offer an appealing mixture of seriousness and humor The speaker of these poems probes romantic and interracial intimacy the strangeness and difficulty of his experiences as a diasporic Black African in White America his time working as a teacher s assistant in a third grade classroom and his ambivalent admiration for canonical poets who have influenced him especially Sylvia Plath Juxtaposing traditional forms such as sonnets and elegies with less orthodox interjections such as prose poem prayers and other meditations the collection presents a poetic world both familiar and jarring one in which history the body and poetry can collide in a single surprising turn of image The stars also suffer Immense and dead their gasses burn distant like castanets of antebellum teeth My open window a synecdoche of country

The Publishers Weekly ,1990 Syllabus of Errors Troy Jollimore,2015-09-29 A new collection of poetry from the winner of the National Book Critics Circle Award we are fixed to perpetrate the species I meant perpetuate as if our duty were coupled with our terror As if beauty itself were but a syllabus of errors Troy Jollimore s first collection of poems won the National Book Critics Circle Award was hailed by the New York Times as a snappy entertaining book and led the San Francisco Chronicle to call him a new and exciting voice in American poetry And his critically acclaimed second collection expanded his reputation for poems that often take a playful approach to philosophical issues While the poems in Syllabus of Errors share recognizable concerns with those of Jollimore's first two books readers will also find a voice that has grown more urgent more vulnerable and more sensitive to both the inevitability of tragedy and the possibility of renewal Poems such as Ache and Echo The Black Capped Chickadees of Martha's Vineyard and When You Lift the Avocado to Your Mouth explore loss regret and the nature of beauty while the culminating long poem Vertigo is an elegy for a lost friend as well as a fantasia on death repetition and transcendence not to mention the poet's favorite Hitchcock film Ingeniously organized into sections that act as reflections on six quotations about birdsong these poems are themselves an answer to the question the poet asks in On Birdsong What would we say to the cardinal or jay given wings that could mimic their velocities

Aurora Americana Myronn Hardy, 2023-10-10 From an award winning poet an exciting new collection that explores exile and return from North Africa to North America In Aurora Americana Myronn Hardy an American poet who moved back to the United States after living for years in Morocco reflects on exile and return as he describes the experience of leaving North Africa and rediscovering a North America both recognizable and unrecognizable What does it mean to feel exiled both away from and at home What does it mean to miss something In forms such as the sonnet ghazal and triolet Aurora Americana takes up the distant and recent past of the United States from Thomas Jefferson to the deadly Unite the Right march in Charlottesville Virginia But the book also meditates on smaller momentary encounters across racial and national barriers from evocations of Francophone Africa to a screening of Black Panther in Portugal for a mostly white audience Allusions to Fannie Lou Hamer Frantz Fanon Prince John Coltrane Alessandro de Medici Ahmed Zaki Modesto Brocos y Gomez Nasser Zefzafi and others anchor the collection With poems set at or near dawn Aurora Americana explores an ominous yet hopeful new morning in America one in which potential cataclysm exists alongside possibility and change

Stet Dora Malech, 2018-10-30 A fascinating collection of serious and playful poems that tap the inventive possibilities of the anagram and other constraining forms In Stet poet Dora Malech takes constraint as her catalyst and subject exploring what it means to make or break a vow to create art out of a life in flux to reckon with the body's bounds and to arrive at a place where one might bear and care for another life Tapping the inventive possibilities of constrained forms particularly the revealing limitations of the anagram Stet is a work of serious play that brings home the connections and intimacies of language Stet from the Latin for let it stand is a proofreading term meaning to retain or return to a previous phrasing The uncertainty of changes made and then reconsidered haunts Stet as its poems explore what is left unsaid through erasures redaction and the limitations of spelling How does one go back on one's word or stand by one's decisions Can a life be remade or revised or is the past forever present as in a palimpsest Embodying the physicality and reproductive potentiality inherent in the collection's forms and figures Stet ends expectantly not searching for closure but awaiting the messy living possibilities of what comes next By turns troubling and consoling Stet powerfully combines lyric invention and brilliant wordplay
