The ART and MYSTERY of Printing Emblematically Displayed.

Devil with Devil's Amos's
First printed letter: Mrs. only Allegory.
Of another nature. Pencil. Leth. B. 21. 494.

Mr. BAYNE.

I was going the other day into Lincoln's-inn, under the great gate-way, I met several folks and boys of different sorts, loaded with books and papers, and by a fully fellow, who turned round and stopped them in the passage. They were all exceeding black and dirty, and made in very odd a figure, that I could not but stop and gaze upon them. Some that looked belted and through up the rear, I did cross out of the Stamp-office: from whence I rightly inferred, that they were Printer Devils, carrying from whence the returns of odd news-papers, after the stamps had been cut off. I thought something unusual would ensue: nor was I deceived in my expectation by the following Dialogue, which I commenced in saying, as soon as I returned to my lodgings. The Dialogue I have distinguished by names, with as great propriety as I could, either from the appearance, the person themselves made, or from the information of others. I have kept as near as possible to the thoughts and expressions of these black gnomes: as to such which I was not a little surprised at first. But when I considered, that many persons in higher life, without ever reading an act, suppose, solely by conversation, a faculty of talking, with great fluency, upon variety of subjects, that they rather understood them, and the language in which they talk, I did not think it disagreeable, that these gnomes, that moving in a lower sphere, yet having considerable opportunities of reading the weekly works of our political writers, or at least of hearing them read, should obtain, in some degree, their way of speaking and thinking. Thus when they generally cry on the streets, might get into the inside of their heads; from whence it proceeds in the following manner.

First gnomes. Scarcely, Devils, Gnomes, and Devils. Let us fly here, and lay down our business for a while we upon the ground, since the bell is fast off, and we are violently deflected from our property. Our property, I say, is that which we are fast upon, possession, as it is for a part, since we have supplied us in that time, we may justly be said to have had the true possession of every body. And since that time to this, thousands of millions have given us their express consent by a laughter of applause. Now when this to be wondered at, since the left to which we put this piece, was of the same nature with that to which it is fixed below, and was a greater improvement of it. It had been for a long while a monument of suitable history, politics, and poetry: and therefore a very proper place for us to sit upon the shoulders of the weighted all those, which lay in heavy upon them. And what company could be more suitable to such of the present writers, than their works we find, than that of Parn, Ours, and Ours, and Ours. And since therefore our title to this place has been confirmed to us by long possession, and our own consent, that we have placed in a seat, we are not thus unbecomingly excluded. I should be for breaking their locks, and demolishing these flowers, which we are not to have any such more service in the Old City, than here in Lincoln's-inn. But they are always on the strongest side, and therefore make it the legal. Wealth and poverty, I have heard figure themselves to say, this two various bodies, heavy on the shoulders of the law, though thick and thin, through fat and good ways and wealth, just as they please, while the weak man in his black ivory, sitting in the seat, as it were, for some's sake, unable to stop their career, encourages them in it, with their reins which ought to restrain them. Hence we sometimes find the dead in a coach, who ought to ride only in a cart, which is frequently suffered to be other ways, who are driven up Lincoln's-inn by some legal coachman.

On which account, I think, it will be better for us to acquire the under the present impudent position, and particularly to lay our burdens down on the ground, than to forcibly re-entrance upon our right, expose ourselves to be taken, and perhaps, rushed up, as they do, and exposed to the danger of our destruction in the same manner with rapids.

Second gnomes. I am heartily glad you are all of my mind: and when you, had you been all another, as I have as once said, had I been your own. I should have been a very much more of the other, and showed you a fair pair of heels. I think my reader, Mr. BAYNE, who was the first great instance of truly Yours, has taken the worst course, as politics is a subject which has grown more and more dangerous to private folks, he has for a long while stayed in this, and in become a much more famous, I suppose than Mr. Gnomes himself. It is no small contribution to their health, but unfortunate position, when they think up at the Chancery as Tyburn, where all are fully informed, that a false account of their lives and proceedings, would be detected by themselves, should be printed in a Weekly Journal. It is therefore of great advantage to the public in general, as well as to my reader in particular, to publish the day's doings of these Gnomes: which are much more instructive to the public, than copies of full wills and testaments, which are always added to the City Gazette and otherwise, only to swell the volume. These Gnomes of Gnomes, since he is called the Yours on the scene, but most properly Yours, and I have heard, that several ancient writers have declared, that they contain more fixed divinity, in better language, than any of those delivered at the Chancery house and Chancery. — But, notwithstanding all this, I am heartily glad, that you should have heard me off, for I think it best of the day's doings of any of you, my intention, to ever lay upon your back, I should hardly guess under it, as the most fat and heavy burden I ever carried in my life. — But I beg your pardon, Mr. President, for this long interruption: for you begin to have something of great importance in your countenance.

Third gnomes. Scarcely. — That my Gnomes, who have been Devil in the last Yours, London Evening Yours, and Yours of Yours, ever since their entrance, and my Yours, which is much Yours to you, might come to give you some sort of right to your Yours: for I acknowledge the remarkable title you have conferred upon me, by a five hundred millions, to a more instance of your Yours, that understood, yet now altogether unperceived. For it seems a natural consequence of the report you have already given me, in only taking out several papers
