Ferrell, 2013-07-01 Once iconic American symbols tobacco farms are gradually disappearing It is difficult for many people to lament the loss of a crop that has come to symbolize addiction disease and corporate deception yet in Kentucky the plant has played an important role in economic development and prosperity Burley tobacco a light air cured variety used in cigarette production has long been the Commonwealth s largest cash crop and an important aspect of regional identity along with bourbon bluegrass music and Thoroughbred horses In Burley Kentucky Tobacco in a New Century Ann K Ferrell investigates the rapidly transforming process of raising and selling tobacco by chronicling her conversations with the farmers who know the crop best She demonstrates that although the 2004 buyout ending the federal tobacco program is commonly perceived to be the most significant change that growers have had to negotiate it is in reality only one new factor among many Burley reveals the tangible and intangible challenges tobacco farmers face today from the logistics of cultivation to the growing stigma against the crop Ferrell uses ethnography archival research and rhetorical analysis to tell the complex story of burley tobacco production in twenty first century Kentucky Not only does she give a voice to the farmers who persevere in this embattled industry but she also sheds light on their futures contesting the widely held assumption that they can easily replace the crop by diversifying their operations with alternative crops As tobacco fades from both the physical and economic landscapes this nuanced volume documents and explores the culture and practices of burley production today
