Social Adaptation To Food Stress A Prehistoric Southwestern Example:

Social Adaptation to Food Stress Paul E. Minnis, 1985-04 Combining anthropology archeology and evolutionary theory Paul E Minnis develops a model of how tribal societies deal with severe food shortages While focusing on the prehistory of the Rio Mimbres region of New Mexico he provides comparative data from the Fringe Enga of New Guinea the Tikopia of Tikopia Island and the Gwembe Tonga of South Africa Minnis proposes that faced with the threat of food shortages nonstratified societies survive by employing a series of responses that are increasingly effective but also are increasingly costly and demand increasingly larger cooperative efforts The model Minnis develops allows him to infer from evidence of such factors as population size resource productivity and climate change the occurrence of food crises in the past Using the Classic Mimbres society as a test case he summarizes the regional archeological sequence and analyzes the effects of environmental fluctuations on economic and social organization He concludes that the responses of the Mimbres people to their burgeoning population were inadequate to prevent the collapse of the society in the late twelfth century In its illumination of the general issue of responses to food shortages Social Adaptation to Food Stress will interest not only archeologists but also those concerned with current food shortages in the Third World Cultural ecologists and human geographers will be able to derive a wealth of ideas methods and data from Minnis's work

The Sociopolitical Structure Of Prehistoric Southwestern Societies Steadman Upham, Kent G Lightfoot, Roberta A. Jewett, 2019-06-26 This book examines current archaeological approaches for studying the organizational structure of prehistoric societies in the American Southwest It presents the historical background of the divergent theoretical models that have been used to interpret Southwestern socio political organizations

Integrating Zooarchaeology and Paleoethnobotany Amber VanDerwarker, Tanya M. Peres, 2010-01-22 In recent years scholars have emphasized the need for more holistic subsistence analyses and collaborative publications towards this endeavor have become more numerous in the literature However there are relatively few attempts to qualitatively integrate zooarchaeological animal and paleoethnobotanical plant data and even fewer attempts to quantitatively integrate these two types of subsistence evidence Given the vastly different methods used in recovering and quantifying these data not to mention their different preservational histories it is no wonder that so few have undertaken this problem Integrating Zooarchaeology and Paleoethnobotany takes the lead in tackling this important issue by addressing the methodological limitations of data integration proposing new methods and innovative ways of using established methods and highlighting case studies that successfully employ these methods to shed new light on ancient foodways The volume challenges the perception that plant and animal foodways are distinct and contends that the separation of the analysis of archaeological plant and animal remains sets up a false dichotomy between these portions of the diet In advocating qualitative and quantitative data integration the volume establishes a clear set of methods for 1 determining the suitability of data integration in any particular case and 2 carrying out an integrated qualitative or quantitative approach

The Oxford Handbook of Southwest Archaeology Barbara Mills, Severin Fowles, 2017-08-15 The American Southwest is one of the most important archaeological regions in the world with many of the best studied examples of hunter gatherer and village based societies Research has been carried out in the region for well over a century and during this time the Southwest has repeatedly stood at the forefront of the development of new archaeological methods and theories Moreover research in the Southwest has long been a key site of collaboration between archaeologists ethnographers historians linguists biological anthropologists and indigenous intellectuals This volume marks the most ambitious effort to take stock of the empirical evidence theoretical orientations and historical reconstructions of the American Southwest Over seventy top scholars have joined forces to produce an unparalleled survey of state of archaeological knowledge in the region Themed chapters on particular methods and theories are accompanied by comprehensive overviews of the culture histories of particular archaeological sequences from the initial Paleoindian occupation to the rise of a major ritual center in Chaco Canyon to the onset of the Spanish and American imperial projects The result is an essential volume for any researcher working in the region as well as any archaeologist looking to take the pulse of contemporary trends in this key research tradition

Sociologies of Food and Nutrition Wm. Alex McIntosh, 2013-11-21 Here Wm Alex McIntosh analyzes the relationship between food and nutrition and social factors using a wide array of sociological theories The author applies theories of social organization culture social stratification social change rural sociology the sociology of the body and social problems to empirical problems in food and nutrition By doing so he sheds light on issues such as the rise of the state population growth famine obesity eating disorders the maldistribution of food across class gender and ethnic boundaries and the changing nature of the food industry

Constructing Community Alison E. Rautman, 2014-11-27 In Constructing Community Alison E Rautman uses the Salinas District in New Mexico to examine the relationships of subsistence practices mobility and settlement Rautman tackles a very broad topic how archaeologists use material evidence to infer and imagine how people lived in the past how they coped with everyday decisions and tensions and how they created a sense of themselves and their place in the world

New Perspectives on Mimbres Archaeology Barbara J. Roth, Patricia A. Gilman, Roger Anyon, 2018-11-27 In the early 1970s understanding of the Mimbres region as a whole was in its infancy In the following decades thanks to dedicated work by enterprising archaeologists and nonprofit organizations our understanding of the Mimbres region has become more complex nuanced and rich New Perspectives on Mimbres Archaeology brings together these experts in a single volume for the first time The contributors discuss current knowledge of the people who lived in the Mimbres region of the southwestern United States and how our knowledge has changed since the Mimbres Foundation directed by Steven A LeBlanc began the first modern archaeological investigations in the region Many of these authors have spent decades conducting the fieldwork that has allowed for a broader understanding of Mimbres society Focusing on a variety of important research topics of interest to archaeologists including the social contexts of people and communities the role of ritual and ideology in Mimbres society evidence of continuities and cultural change through time and the varying impacts of external influences throughout the region New Perspectives on Mimbres Archaeology presents recent data on and interpretations of the entire pre Hispanic sequence of occupation Additional contributions include a history of nonprofit archaeology by William H Doelle and a concluding chapter by Steven A LeBlanc reflecting on his decades long work in Mimbres archaeology and outlining important areas for the next wave of research Collapse Jared Diamond,2013-03-21 From the author of Guns Germs and Steel Jared Diamond s Collapse How Societies Choose to Fail or Survive is a visionary study of the mysterious downfall of past civilizations Now in a revised edition with a new afterword Jared Diamond s Collapse uncovers the secret behind why some societies flourish while others founder and what this means for our future What happened to the people who made the forlorn long abandoned statues of Easter Island What happened to the architects of the crumbling Maya pyramids Will we go the same way our skyscrapers one day standing derelict and overgrown like the temples at Angkor Wat Bringing together new evidence from a startling range of sources and piecing together the myriad influences from climate to culture that make societies self destruct Jared Diamond s Collapse also shows how unlike our ancestors we can benefit from our knowledge of the past and learn to be survivors A grand sweep from a master storyteller of the human race Daily Mail Riveting superb terrifying Observer Gripping the book fulfils its huge ambition and Diamond is the only man who could have written it Economis This book shines like all Diamond s work Sunday Times Phase II Data Recovery at Sites NM-Q-25-51 and NM-Q-25-52 Along County Road 19, Borrego Pass, McKinley County, New Mexico Kurt E.
