Social Analysis Of Education After The New Sociology:

Social Analysis of Education Philip Wexler, 2017-04-28 First published in 1987 this book offers an ideological critique of the new sociology of education with the aim to redeem understanding of the social and historical character of knowledge It argues that with an historical and social grasp university knowledge can be understood as a collective product and can become a useful resource for encountering and transforming the social present To reach this objective the book reviews the history of the new sociology of education and shows how it is limited by earlier times and social conflicts In doing so it aims to continue the unrealized critical analysis that was promised by the new sociology of education and remained contained

After Postmodernism Richard Smith, Philip Wexler, 2005-09-27 This work presents a set of thematic essays aimed at clarifying the educational problems and paradoxes of postmodern educational conditions and theory The major concerns of the book are the possibility of achieving substantive political objectives and of theorising such possibilities These concerns arise from a dissatisfaction with the organisational and political conditions of postmodern educational practice The seeming inability of academics to intervene in the public sector especially in matters of equality provides a driving force to the book For individuals who care about the future of education and its role in social reconstruction the pessimistic nature of postmodern theories of society and education is an additional impetus for the book All the chapters exemplify the issues that confront lecturers in contemporary university teacher education contexts A notable feature of the book is a theme that current theorisation about education and society are historically outmoded and that the future lies in post postmodern theories

Critical Theory Now Philip Wexler, 2003-05-20 First Published in 1991 The first wave of North American critical theory was at once both academic and political Interest in the works of the early Frankfurt School may have belonged to a more general renaissance of academic social theory that occurred in North America during the late 1960s and early 1970s There is a new voice that comes through the historic political struggles of a student movement of feminism and of anti racist and ecological social movements It is a voice also schooled in a sensitivity to the theories of social disintegration or an implosion that characterizes the post modernist moment The authors represented in this reader are neither scholastic nor dogmatic They do not eschew postmodernism for hackneyed slogans nor do they embrace theory as an aesthetic substitute for theory as a socially transformative practice They are committed both to social theory and social practice and it is this which unifies the papers which follow The authors are a new generation of North American critical theorists who do not retreat to European humanism in the face of social cultural and self transformation

those social actors teachers communities of color critical researchers and labor unions most likely to defend and expand previous social democratic victories

David Pearson, Rebecca Barr, 2016-11-18 In Volume III as in Volumes I and II the classic topics of reading are included from vocabulary and comprehension to reading instruction in the classroom and in addition each contributor was asked to include a brief history that chronicles the legacies within each of the volume s many topics However on the whole Volume III is not about tradition Rather it explores the verges of reading research between the time Volume II was published in 1991 and the research conducted after this date The editors identified two broad themes as representing the myriad of verges that have emerged since Volumes I and II were published 1 broadening the definition of reading and 2 broadening the reading research program The particulars of these new themes and topics are addressed

Could It Be Otherwise? Lois André-Bechely, 2013-10-11 Parents who wish to choose schools for their children must have more than a desire for different or better they need detailed knowledge of the processes and practices that will give them access to schools of choice This book vividly contrasts the experiences of a diverse group of urban parents choosing their children s schools with school choice policies from voluntary integration mandates to the No Child Left Behind Act Lois Andr Bechely carefully uncovers the race and class based inequities these policies sustain documenting the way parents themselves become complicit in the historical inequalities of schooling This book exposes how educational institutions are making this so and provokes new thinking about how public school choice could be implemented in more equitable and democratic ways
