The Suppression of the African Slave Trade to the United States of America: 1638-1870 W.E.B. Du Bois, 2018-02-06 This monograph was begun during my residence as Rogers Memorial Fellow at Harvard University and is based mainly upon a study of the sources i e national State and colonial statutes Congressional documents reports of societies personal narratives etc The collection of laws available for this research was I think nearly complete on the other hand facts and statistics bearing on the economic side of the study have been difficult to find and my conclusions are consequently liable to modification from this source The question of the suppression of the slave trade is so intimately connected with the questions as to its rise the system of American slavery and the whole colonial policy of the eighteenth century that it is difficult to isolate it and at the same time to avoid superficiality on the one hand and unscientific narrowness of view on the other While I could not hope entirely to overcome such a difficulty I nevertheless trust that I have succeeded in rendering this monograph a small contribution to the scientific study of slavery and the American Negro

This book analyzes the Gold Coast and the Asante kingdom in the years following the abolition of the transatlantic slave trade and prior to the start of colonial rule. The Asante state, one of the largest in the Gold Coast and West Africa after the eighteenth century, is the central focus of this work. Studying their transition from a large scale supplier of captives to the transatlantic slave trade to traders in legitimate goods is a critical component that should be analyzed across West Africa. This work highlights the political and economic relationships between the interior Asante state with surrounding African groups and Europeans, chiefly British traders who entered the region in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.
