S. Freund,Meredith B. McGuire,1999 This text presents a critical holistic interpretation of health illness and human bodies that emphasizes power as a key social structural factor in health and in societal responses to illness It does not attempt to cover every relevant topic in the sociology of health and illness but is organized as a set of core essays around which to build a course with the expectation that instructors will assign additional readings to exemplify and develop further these important analytical themes NEW Updates coverage throughout to include important recent research and theoretical contributions with special emphasis on ethnic diversity gender differences and social stratification NEW Reorganizes coverage of economic interests and power in health care to focus on the importance and complexity of health care financing and insurance before discussing the health care institutions and corporate interests themselves Updates coverage throughout to include important recent research and theoretical contributions with special emphasis on ethnic diversity gender differences and social stratification Reorganizes coverage of economic interests and power in health care to focus on the      Sociological Perspectives on Health, Illness, and Health Care David Field,Steve D.
