Sociologies of New Zealand Charles Crothers, 2018-04-13 This book provides the first comprehensive analysis of the various sociologies of New Zealand from the late 19th century to the present day Opening with previously undocumented insights into the history of proto sociology in New Zealand the book then explores the parallel stories of the discipline both as a mainstream subject in Sociology departments and as a more diffuse sociology within other university units The rise and fall of departments specialties and research networks is plotted and the ways in which external and internal factors have shaped these is explained Different generations of sociologists including many immigrants are each shown to have left their unique mark on New Zealand sociology The author demonstrates that the rising interest in topics specific to New Zealand has been accompanied by increasing capacities to contribute to world sociology This book will have inter disciplinary appeal across the social sciences and provides a valuable study of the development of sociology in a semi peripheral country Sociology of Health in New Zealand Kevin Dew, Allison Kirkman, 2002 This book firmly grounds sociological analysis of health in the New Zealand experience and takes in a wide range of contemporary themes in sociology of health and medicine The book is an easily readable textbook on the sociology of health The Palgrave Handbook of Social Theory in Health, Illness and Medicine F. Cultures of Intoxication Fiona Hutton, 2020-01-25 This book considers the global discourses and debates about intoxication engaging in critical academic discussion around this concept The problems in defining intoxication are considered alongside the meanings of intoxication and how these meanings often differ across diverse drug using populations The way that intoxication has been engaged with over the centuries has affected how particular groups are perceived and responded to resulting in punitive responses such as drug prohibition alongside harsh treatment of those who are seen to transgress societal norms and values Therefore this collection seeks to unsettle dominant discourses about intoxication and to consider this concept in new critical ways Ways of being intoxicated are also defined in this book in their broadest sense from energy drinks and other legal drugs to recreational use of illicit drugs such as ecstasy to problematic drug use

Prostitution Research in Context Marlene Spanger, May-Len Skilbrei, 2017-03-16 The starting point for this book is the question of how we research sex for sale and the implications of the choices we make in terms of epistemology and ethics Which dilemmas and ethical aspects need to be taken into account when producing qualitative data within a highly politicised and moral infected realm These two questions are exactly what Spanger and Skilbrei aim to unpack in this unusual interdisciplinary methodology book Prostitution Research in Context The book offers contributions from a number of scholars who based on their reflections on their own research practice and the existing knowledge field discuss ongoing methodological issues and challenges representative of international research on sex for sale Some chapters deal explicitly with methodological dilemmas in research others thematise the encounter between prostitution research and general texts on epistemology Other chapters again actively engage with the ethical dilemmas that research on the topic of sex for sale can entail The authors represent different disciplines but share an interest in engaging in reflexive research practices informed by feminism and feminist epistemologies An authoritative contribution to the field this innovative volume will appeal to international scholars and students from across the social sciences and humanities in areas such as sociology anthropology criminology media studies feminist studies human geography and history Sustainability,
