Lives of Indian Images Richard H. Davis, 2020-07-21 For many centuries Hindus have taken it for granted that the religious images they place in temples and home shrines for purposes of worship are alive Hindu priests bring them to life through a complex ritual establishment that invokes the god or goddess into material support Priests and devotees then maintain the enlivened image as a divine person through ongoing liturgical activity they must awaken it in the morning bathe it dress it feed it entertain it praise it and eventually put it to bed at night In this linked series of case studies of Hindu religious objects Richard Davis argues that in some sense these believers are correct through ongoing interactions with humans religious objects are brought to life Davis draws largely on reader response literary theory and anthropological approaches to the study of objects in society in order to trace the biographies of Indian religious images over many centuries He shows that Hindu priests and worshipers are not the only ones to enliven images Bringing with them differing religious assumptions political agendas and economic motivations others may animate the very same objects as icons of sovereignty as polytheistic idols as devils as potentially lucrative commodities as objects of sculptural art or as symbols for a whole range of new meanings never foreseen by the images makers or original worshipers
