Marginson,1993 This book summarises and analyses the major issues in Australian education policy today Life After Dawkins Stuart Macintyre,Gwilym Croucher,André Brett,2016-04-18 The reconstruction of higher education in Australia through the creation of the Unified National System of Higher Education at the end of the 1980s by John Dawkins is commonly seen as a watershed It brought new ways of funding directing and organising universities expanding their size reorienting their activities and setting in train a far reaching transformation of the academic enterprise This volume traces its impact on the balance between the University of Melbourne s academic mission and external expectations and how it adjusted to neutralise the impact of the change and restore the balance At Melbourne the Dawkins revolution changed little in the way it understood itself and conducted its affairs but changed everything

Knowledge as Value Ian Morley, Mira Crouch, 2008 This book considers the place and value of knowledge in contemporary society Knowledge is not a self evident concept both its denotations and connotations are historically situated Since the Enlightenment knowledge has been a matter of discovery through effort and knowledge for its own sake a taken for granted ideal underwriting progressive education as a process which not only taught for and about something but also ennobled the soul While this ideal has not been explicitly rejected in recent decades there has been a tacit move away from a strong emphasis on its centrality even in Higher Education The authors address the values that inform knowledge production in its present forms and seek to identify social and cultural factors that support these values Against the background of increasingly restrictive conditions of academic work the first section of this volume offers incisive critiques of Higher Education with examples drawn from Australia and New Zealand The second group of chapters considers how academics have viewed and have tried to adapt to present circumstances The third section comprises papers that consider epistemological issues in the generation and promulgation of knowledge The chapters in this volume are indicative of the work that needs to be done so that we can come to comprehend and perhaps try and improve our relationship to learning and knowledge in the 21st Century This timely book will be of particular interest to workers in higher education it should also inform and challenge all those who have concerns for the future of the intellectual life of our civilization

Globalizing Practices and University Responses Jan Currie,Richard Deangelis,Harry deBoer,Jeroen Huisman,Claude Lacotte,2003-01-30 Investigates the impact that certain globalizing practices have on European and American universities Due to dwindling resources and the ideology of privatization universities are becoming more corporatized and managerial The authors investigate the consequences of these changes on the lives of academics and analyze how globalizing practices such as managerialism accountability and employment flexibility penetrate different universities Globalization is a contested term It exists in the form of an integrated world economy and global communication networks Along with this material world politicians have created a neoliberal ideology that exhorts nation states to open up their economies to free trade reduce their public sector and allow market forces to reshape their public agencies In effect this means a reduced role for government lower taxes and diminishing funds for public institutions like universities The underlying thesis of this book is that globalization is not an inexorable force All nations need to debate its consequences The authors analyze how globalizing practices are penetrating universities Are they creating a certain uniformity Are academics adapting to or resisting particular globalizing practices The premise at the beginning of the study was that European universities were responding differently to globalizing practices than Anglo American universities This premise was confirmed as some universities saw certain globalizing practices as inevitable and other universities resisted them The authors asked academics and key managers how their funding had changed and which accountability mechanisms their universities adopted They also investigated the use of the Internet in their teaching They found differences between European and American universities in their approach to permanent employment The French and Norwegian universities were maintaining many of their traditional values and only the Dutch university showed some movement towards the globalizing practices which American universities were more readily adopting
