Stager,2022-12-15 The remains of ancient Mediterranean art and architecture that have survived over the centuries present the modern viewer with images of white the color of the stone often used for sculpture Antiquarian debates and recent scholarship however have challenged this aspect of ancient sculpture There is now a consensus that sculpture produced in the ancient Mediterranean world as well as art objects in other media were in fact polychromatic Color has consequently become one of the most important issues in the study of classical art Jennifer Stager s landmark book makes a vital contribution to this discussion Analyzing the dyes pigments stones earth and metals found in ancient art works along with the language that writers in antiquity used to describe color she examines the traces of color in a variety of media Stager also discusses the significance of a reception history that has emphasized whiteness revealing how ancient artistic practice and ancient philosophies of color significantly influenced one another

In Pursuit of Beauty Metropolitan Museum of Art (New York, N.Y.),1986 This project is the first comprehensive study of a phenomenon that not only dominated the American arts of the 1870s and 1880s but also helped set the course of such later developments in the United States as the Arts and Crafts movement the indigenous interpretation of Art Nouveau and even the rise of modernism In fact the early history of the Metropolitan its founding its sponsorship of a school of industrial design and its display of decorative works is inextricably tied to the Aesthetic movement and its educational goals In Pursuit of Beauty Americans and the Aesthetic Movement comprised some 175 objects including furniture metalwork stained glass ceramics textiles wallpaper painting and sculpture Some of these had rarely been displayed others although familiar were being shown in new and even startling contexts The exhibition and catalogue are arranged thematically to illustrate both the major styles of a visually rich movement and the ideas that generated its diversity From publisher s description

Plaster Monuments Mari Lending,2022-06-14 We are taught to believe in originals In art and architecture in particular original objects vouch for authenticity value and truth and require our protection and preservation The nineteenth century however saw this issue differently In a culture of reproduction plaster casts of building fragments and architectural features were sold throughout Europe and America and proudly displayed in leading museums The first comprehensive history of these full scale replicas Plaster Monuments examines how they were produced marketed sold and displayed and how their significance can be understood today Plaster Monuments unsettles conventional thinking about copies and originals As Mari Lending shows the casts were used to restore wholeness to buildings that in reality lay in ruin or to isolate specific features of monuments to illustrate what was typical of a particular building style or era Arranged in galleries and published in exhibition catalogues these often enormous objects were staged to suggest the sweep of history synthesizing structures from vastly different regions and time periods into coherent narratives While architectural plaster casts fell out of fashion after World War I Lending brings the story into the twentieth century showing how Paul Rudolph incorporated historical casts into the design for the Yale Art and Architecture building completed in 1963 Drawing from a broad archive of models exhibitions catalogues and writings from architects explorers archaeologists curators novelists and artists Plaster Monuments tells the fascinating story of a premodernist aesthetic and presents a new way of thinking about history's artifacts
