Dickhaut,2013-07-03 In Building a Community of Interpreters Walter Dickhaut argues that the practice of reading and by extension listening is no less creative than the practice of writing and speaking readers and hearers just as much as writers and speakers are producers of meaning Hence the work of biblical interpretation is the work the calling of a community Focused on the experience of the reader or hearer of biblical texts he explores such questions as What happens when the author disappears What happens when a reader opens a book to meet the author What happens when a book is read What happens when the reader changes spectacles Into discussion of such issues as the reader's angle of vision when texts open and close the reader's expectations the reader's meeting up with the text and the functions of filters and lenses in the practice of reading and hearing the author introduces mystery surprise and expectation as hermeneutical lenses that can enlarge what may be seen in biblical texts In addition to some homiletical samples the author concludes with a suggested teaching plan for building a community of interpreters
