Crime Control As Industry Nils Christie, 2016-10-04 Crime Control As Industry translated into many languages is a modern classic of criminology and sociology Nils Christie one of the leading criminologists of his era argues that crime control rather than crime itself is the real danger for our future Prison populations especially in Russia and America have grown at an increasingly rapid rate and show no signs of slowing Christie argues that this vast and growing population is the equivalent of a modern gulag run by a rapacious industry both public and private with vested interests in incarceration Pain and confinement are products like any other with a potentially limitless supply of resources Widely hailed as a classic account of crime and restorative justice Crime Control As Industry's prophetic insights and proposed solutions are essential reading for anyone interested in crime and the global penal system This Routledge Classics edition includes a new foreword by David Garland

The Better Angels of Our Nature Steven Pinker, 2012-09-25 Faced with the ceaseless stream of news about war crime and terrorism one could easily think this is the most violent age ever seen Yet as bestselling author Pinker shows in this startling and engaging new work just the opposite is true

Through the Lens of the City, During the 1970s the National Endowment for the Arts Photography Surveys granted money to photograph American cities at the bicentennial and years that followed In Through the Lens of the City NEA Photography Surveys of the 1970s Mark Rice brings to light this long neglected photographic endeavor From 1976 to 1981 the NEA supported more than seventy projects that examined a wide range of people and places in America Artists involved included such well known photographers as Bruce Davidson Lee Friedlander and Joel Meyerowitz and many photographers who became widely known after their work with the surveys such as Robert Adams Joe Deal Terry Evans and Wendy Ewald Rice argues that the NEA Photographic Surveys drew from two wells a widespread sense of nostalgia and an intense public interest in photography Looking at the works from eight key cities Atlanta Buffalo Durham East Baltimore Galveston Long Beach Los Angeles and Venice the book uncovers marked differences as well as startling similarities in the concerns manifested by different photographers in far flung places Although the surveys are interesting both for their artistic merits and for their place in the history of American photography they are equally important as a documentation of bicentennial era America and a close examination of American cities A major shift in the ideals of civil engineering and urban planning was underway in the 1970s At the same time ideas and theories about photography were changing along with our notions of what the city could and should be These surveys capturing American cities in a fascinating period of flux show us American photographers matching artistry to subject matter in new and exciting ways Mark Rice is chair of the American studies department at St John Fisher College His work has been published in such periodicals as Exposure Explore and Reviews in American History
