Thom, 2010-11-30 The most important work on the birds of Scotland ever published British Birds This comprehensive study and review of the birds in Scotland follows on from where the celebrated two volumes of The Birds of Scotland 1953 by Dr Baxter and Miss Rintoul left off It does more than that however since not only has there been a profound increase in ornithological coverage and data as reflected in the species accounts there have also been great changes in habitat and environment since the days of Baxter there are also brief summaries of earlier data based on the researches of Baxter Rintoul In all 497 species are dealt with The texts of major species accounts are complemented by 173 distribution maps and many tables of relevant data and there are 129 species drawings by a team of artists under the editorship of Donald Watson who also contributes chapter head pieces and other drawings A section of photographs illustrates the varied habitats typical of Scotland today There are further appendices and an extensive bibliography The book will be of great interest to all birdwatchers in Scotland but of special value too to the many thousands of birdwatching visitors from elsewhere in these islands and from countries abroad The Scottish Ornithologists Club for whom the book is published and all whose records and researches made the author's work possible have reason to be proud of Valerie Thom's achievement      Field Geology in the British Isles J. Compositional Data Analysis in the Geosciences Antonella Buccianti, G. Mateu-Figueras, Vera Pawlowsky-Glahn, 2006 Since Karl Pearson wrote his paper on spurious correlation in 1897 a lot has been said about the statistical analysis of compositional data mainly by geologists such as Felix Chayes The solution appeared in the 1980s when John Aitchison proposed to use logratios Since then the approach has seen a great expansion mainly building on the idea of the natural geometry of the sample space Statistics is expected to give sense to our perception of the natural scale of the data and this is made possible for compositional data using logratios This publication will be a milestone in this process
